Womens Spiritual Leadership In Africa Tempered Radicals And Critical Servant Leaders:

Women's Spiritual Leadership in Africa Faith Wambura Ngunjiri, 2010-02-23 Women's Spiritual Leadership in Africa offers portraits of sixteen African women in leadership positions in grassroots national Pan African and global organizations and explores how they choose to rock the boat without falling out by transforming their communities and organizations from within. In her analysis of the women leaders' experiences, Faith Ngunjiri demonstrates how these African women navigate cultural and organizational challenges including the intersecting oppressions of gender, ethnicity, class, and marital status in order to act boldly against social and economic injustices. Ngunjiri characterizes the women as critical servant leaders because of their approach to leadership where they lead through service while deconstructing patriarchal social and institutional practices and providing positive alternatives. The women's tempered radicalism and servant leadership is deeply informed by African and Christian spirituality which animates and informs their lives and leadership experiences. Collectively, the women's stories present an important and inspiring vision of contemporary women's leadership in African contexts.

Spirituality in Higher Education Heewon Chang, Drick Boyd, 2016-09-16 This collection of articles explores how a wide range of academics, diverse in location, rank, and discipline, understand and express how they deal with spirituality in their professional lives and how they integrate spirituality in teaching, research, administration, and advising. The contributors also analyze the culture of academia and its challenges to the spiritual development of those involved. Twenty chapter authors from a variety of faith traditions discuss the ways in which their own beliefs have affected their journeys through higher education. By using an autoethnographic, self-analytical lens, this collection shows how various spiritualities have influenced how higher education is understood, taught, and performed. The book will stimulate debate and conversations on a topic traditionally ignored in academia.

Leadership in Postcolonial Africa B. Jallow, 2014-12-17 Leadership in Post Colonial Africa examines the leadership concepts and lessons that emerged during and after the attainment of independence with insightful studies of Africa's first female presidents, gangster elitism, Nelson Mandela, and beyond.

Transformative and Engaging Leadership Maggie Madimbo, 2016-05-26 This book explores how spirituality and resiliency define the character of African women and inspire them to serve the communities and organizations around them. Through portraits of twelve Malawian women, national leaders, it celebrates the lives of indigenous women and describes how their unique backgrounds and experiences have contributed to their leadership development. It provides an understanding of the strategies these women employ to move beyond historical barriers to exercise leadership. The author introduces a new leadership model called transformative engaging leadership which demonstrates how African women leaders use their inner strength to thrive and succeed in the midst of challenges. It contributes to African female leadership studies and will be helpful to leaders and organizations that have a passion for advancing female leaders in the developing world.
