Labour Law in Motion Roger Blanpain, Takashi Araki, Shinya Ouchi, 2005-01-01 While legislation protecting employees exists in most advanced countries the notion of who actually is an employee has become unstable Moreover the decentralization of traditional collective bargaining is clearly under way everywhere and the all important balance between workers security and employers flexibility continues to change radically either retreating toward individual statutory rights or seeking new forms of employee representation Labour Law in Motion reprints sixteen reports originally submitted to the seventh Comparative Labor Law Seminar Tokyo Seminar sponsored by the Japan Institute for Labour Policy and Training in March 2004 Eleven expert authors describe the situation in their respective countries with regard to issues such as the following criteria used to determine whether a person is an employee what categories of non employee exist and what measure of statutory protection is afforded to such persons variations in the concept of employee among labour law tax law and social security law regulation of terms and conditions of employment the forms and legal nature of employee representation current trends in deregulation or re regulation of labour laws mechanisms permitting deviation from legal norms and the manner and extent of labour law intervention in the labour market All eleven authors emphasize recent and ongoing changes in their countries labour laws and evaluate the factors that have contributed to such changes Each author concludes that reform of traditional labour laws is indeed necessary However the book as a whole clearly demonstrates that the content of such reform differs from country to country particularly in the extent to which labour law entrusts the regulation of working conditions to the market Offering as it does a clear and concise summary of the recent and current experience of labour relations in eight major industrialized countries Labour Law in Motion is an essential resource for professionals and officials engaged in any aspect of labour law or regulation in any country

Adequacy of Earnings Replacement in Workers' Compensation Programs H. Allan Hunt, 2004 In 1998 NASI convened a study panel of its Workers Compensation Steering Committee seep 145 for a list of panel members to review the earnings replacement benefits under the various state and federal workers compensation programs for workers injured or made ill by their jobs The Benefit Adequacy Study Panel s task was to examine the extent to which workers compensation wage replacement benefits paid to injured workers replace their lost wages and to assess the adequacy of wage replacement

Workers' Compensation Joseph W. Little, Thomas A. Eaton, Gary Randall Smith, 2014 Two major factors explain the workers compensation focus Foremost is that the topic is important and rich enough to recived the full attention of an entire course and entire book The place of compensation for industrial injuries in our culture and law is not waning and neither is the need for lawyers who are educated to cope with the legal issues The second major reason for the exclusive attention to workers compensation is almost the mirror image of the first Developments in other employment areas e.g OSHA anti discrimination and social security continue to produce new volumes of materials that collectively justify separate treatment independent of workers compensation
