When People Come First Critical Studies In Global Health:

When People Come First João Biehl, Adriana Petryna, 2013-07-07 A people centered approach to global health When People Come First critically assesses the expanding field of global health It brings together an international and interdisciplinary group of scholars to address the medical social political and economic dimensions of the global health enterprise through vivid case studies and bold conceptual work The book demonstrates the crucial role of ethnography as an empirical lantern in global health arguing for a more comprehensive people centered approach Topics include the limits of technological quick fixes in disease control the moral economy of global health science the unexpected effects of massive treatment rollouts in resource poor contexts and how right to health activism coalesces with the increased influence of the pharmaceutical industry on health care The contributors explore the altered landscapes left behind after programs scale up break down or move on We learn that disease is really never just one thing technology delivery does not equate with care and biology and technology interact in ways we cannot always predict The most effective solutions may well be found in people themselves who consistently exceed the projections of experts and the medical scientific political and humanitarian frameworks in which they are cast When People Come First sets a new research agenda in global health and social theory and challenges us to rethink the relationships between care rights health and economic futures Global Health and Geographical Imaginaries Clare Herrick, David Reubi, 2017-03-16 To date geography has not yet carved out a disciplinary niche within the diffuse domain that constitutes global health However the compulsion to do and understand global health emerges largely from contexts that geography has long engaged with urbanisation globalisation political economy risk vulnerability lifestyles geopolitics culture governance development and the environment Moreover global health brings with it an innate powerful and politicising spatial logic that is only now starting to emerge as an object of enquiry This book aims to draw attention to and showcase the wealth of existing and emergent geographical contributions to what has recently been termed critical global health studies Geographical perspectives this collection argues are essential to bringing new and critical perspectives to bear on the inherent complexities and interconnectedness of global health problems and purported solutions Thus rather than rehearsing the frequent critique that global health is more a set of problems than a coherent disciplinary approach to ameliorating the health of all and redressing global bio inequalities this collection seeks to explore what these problems might represent and the geographical imaginaries inherent in their constitution This unique volume of geographical writings on global health not only deepens social scientific engagements with health itself but in so doing brings forth a series of new conceptual methodological and empirical contributions to social scientific multidisciplinary scholarship A Time for Critique Bernard E. Harcourt, Didier Fassin, 2019-09-10 In a world of political upheaval rising inequality catastrophic climate change and widespread doubt of even the most authoritative sources of information is there a place for critique This book calls for a systematic reappraisal of critical thinking its assumptions its practices its genealogy its predicament following the principle that critique can only start with self critique In A Time for Critique Didier Fassin Bernard E Harcourt and a group of eminent political theorists anthropologists sociologists philosophers and literary and legal scholars reflect on the multiplying contexts and forms of critical discourse and on the social actors and social movements engaged in them How can one maintain sufficient distance from the eventful present without doing it an injustice How can one address contemporary issues without repudiating the intellectual legacies of the past How can one avoid the disconnection between theory and action How can critique be both public and collective These provocative questions are addressed by revisiting the works of Foucault and Arendt Said and C saire Benjamin and Du Bois but they are also given substance through on the ground case studies that treat subaltern criticism in Palestine emancipatory mobilizations in Syria the antitorture campaigns of Sri Lankan activists and the abolitionism of the African American critical resistance and undercommons movements in the United States Examining lucidly the present challenges of critique A Time for Critique shows how its theoretical reassessment and its emerging forms can illuminate the imaginative modalities to rejuvenate critical praxis

Critical Reflections on Public Private Partnerships Jasmine Gideon,Elaine Unterhalter,2020-12-21 This book argues that despite the hype within many policy circles there is actually very little evidence to support the presumed benefits of Public Private Partnerships PPPs in reducing poverty and addressing inequalities in the provision of and access to public services Taking a cross sectoral comparative approach this book investigates how PPPs have played out in practice and what the implications have been for inequalities Drawing on a range of empirical case studies in education healthcare housing and water the book picks apart the roles of PPPs as financing mechanisms in several international and national contexts and considers the similarities and differences between sectors The global COVID 19 pandemic has raised significant questions about the future of social provision and through its analysis of the emergence and expansion of the role of PPPs the book also makes a vital contribution to current discussion over this rapidly changing landscape Overall this wide ranging guide to understanding and evaluating the role of PPPs in the Global South will be useful to researchers within development international relations economics and related fields as well as to policy makers and practitioners working in development related policy
