Ezrow, Erica Frantz, 2013-07-18 What do we mean by failed states and why is this concept important to study The failed states literature is important because it aims to understand how state institutions or lack thereof impact conflict crime coups terrorism and economic performance In spite of this objective the failed state literature has not focused enough on how institutions operate in the developing world This book unpacks the state by examining the administrative security judicial and political institutions separately By doing so the book offers a more comprehensive and clear picture of how the state functions or does not function in the developing world merging the failed state and institutionalist literatures Rather than merely describing states in crisis this book explains how and why different types of institutions deteriorate Moreover the book illustrates the impact that institutional decay has on political instability and poverty using examples not only from Africa but from all around the world

Demography of Armed Conflict Helge Brunborg, Ewa Tabeau, Henrik Urdal, 2006-12-13 War and conflict whether internal or international remains a pervasive phenomenon affecting most regions of the world and particularly low income countries Demographic consequences of war and violence especially deaths and forced migration are amongst the gravest costs of war and receive much attention in mass media although it is often difficult to quantify such effects Furthermore demographic factors such as population pressure on natural renewable resources migration differential population dynamics by ethnic or religious group or the number of young persons in a population have been suggested as potential causes of conflict Despite the obvious importance of both demographic causes and consequences of armed conflict research on the demographic aspects of conflict is scarce This book brings together researchers from very different traditions to bridge gaps in the field and to provide new insights into the demographic causes and consequences of armed conflict The diversity of the authors coming from demography statistics political science sociology anthropology history geography economics and law gives the reader a cross cut of recent research in demography and armed conflict The themes are equally diverse Studies of demographic causes of conflict address issues of migration ethnicity population growth and youth bulges Studies focusing on the consequences of conflict include some broad assessments of mortality from armed conflict the estimation of casualties for prosecution of war crimes as well as detailed case studies of conflicts in Bosnia and Herzegovina Cambodia Kenya Mali Rwanda Sudan and Uganda The Future of American Intelligence Peter Berkowitz, 2005 These essays from a diverse group of distinguished contributors deepen our understanding of the new national security threats posed by terrorism by the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and by the spread of Islamic extremism They examine the obstacles to making U S intelligence more capable and offer recommendations for effective reform OECD Journal on Development ,2009

Economic and Political Weekly ,2006 Rebuilding Devastated Economies in the Middle East Leonard Binder, 2007-10-15 This book analyzes the political obstacles to the adoption of classic strategies of economic recovery and development as well as the economic consequences of democratic political reforms The case studies demonstrate that both rentierism and the democracy deficit result from a means end problem rather than an ideological problem The contributors focus on the role of the challenged rulers of shaky states where economic devastation has been the consequence of civil strife often aided and abetted by external influences But if there can be no successful rebuilding of devastated economies without some significant regime change we seem to be asking these governments to put themselves out of business Reports of the President and the Treasurer John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation,2005 Includes biographies of fellows appointed reappointments publications musical compositions academic appointments and index of fellows
