Shakespeare's Histories on Screen Jennie M. Votava, 2023-06-29 This volume reframes the critical conversation about Shakespeare's histories and national identity by bringing together two growing bodies of work early modern race scholarship and adaptation theory Theorizing a link between adaptation and intersectionality it demonstrates how over the past thirty years race has become a central and constitutive part of British and American screen adaptations of the English histories Available to expanding audiences via digital media platforms these adaptations interrogate the dialectic between Shakespeare's cultural capital and racial reckonings on both sides of the Atlantic and across time By engaging contemporary representations of race ethnicity gender sexuality disability and class adaptation not only creates artefacts that differ from their source texts but also facilitates the conditions in which race and its intersections in the plays become visible At the centre of this analysis stand two landmark 21st century history adaptations that use non traditional casting the British TV miniseries The Hollow Crown 2012-2016 and the American independent film H4 2012 an all Black Henry IV conflation In addition to demonstrating how the 21st century screen history illuminates both past and present constructions of embodied difference these works provide a lens for reassessing two history adaptations from Shakespeare's 1990s box office renaissance when actors of colour were first cast in cinematic versions of the plays As exemplified by these formal adaptations reappropriations of race in history non traditional Shakespearean casting practices are also currently shaping digital culture's conversations about race in non Shakespearean period dramas such as Bridgerton
