

The Us Strategic Bomber

GEORGE J. REFUTO

The Us Strategic Bomber:

Flying Blind Michael E. Brown, 2019-01-24 Flying Blind offers an astute analysis of the role of organizational forces in initiating and shaping weapons programs Michael E Brown concerns himself with how weapons programs begin and why they turn out as they do In the process he redresses a large imbalance in our understanding of how nations arm themselves In an unmatched account constructed from massive archival work and material declassified through the Freedom of Information Act the author provides a detailed description of all fifteen postwar U S strategic bomber programs from the B 35 to the B 2 Challenging the conventional wisdom about arms races and the weapons acquisition process Brown marshals compelling evidence that Air Force reactions to strategic developments not technological opportunism or industry initiative brought about many major innovations in those programs He also discusses competing explanations of the cost schedule and performance problems that plague U S acquisition efforts He maintains that powerful strategic and bureaucratic forces lead American military organizations to set their performance requirements far beyond the state of the art and to push their programs as fast as possible This he argues is a recipe for disaster Developing a comprehensive explanation of the cost and performance problems that plague modern weapons programs he presents policy recommendations designed to address these issues

The U.S. Strategic Bomber Roger A. Freeman, 1975 United States Strategic Bombers 1945 - 2012 Stuart Slade, 2012-05-01 A definitive resource from Defense Lion Publications detailing the evolution of the United States Strategic Bomber inventory from the Boeing B 29 Superfortress in World War II through the B 2 Stealth Bomber Remastered archival documents from the U S Air Force with design characteristics are also included for each aircraft with authoritative original text that places each one in the context of the development of aviation technology and world history A look at the future for the next generation of United States Bomber is also discussed in detail This is an authoritative resource for military historians aviation buffs or for anyone looking for insight into the bombers that changed the world Battling for Bombers Frank P. Donnini, 2000-06-30 Although the United States Air Force was founded upon strategic bombardment theory and advocacy the service has traditionally had tremendous difficulty in obtaining the adequate funding for bombers that it requires to fulfill its mandate For more than 45 years senior Air Force leaders both military and civilian have struggled to convince decision makers in the White House and in Congress that modern manned bomber forces were needed acceptable and affordable In this study Donnini produces one of the most exhaustive analyses ever undertaken of Congressional subcommittee decision making in the funding of defense procurement initiatives He concludes that no program achieved measurable success of deployment with the original force structure requested and only two the B 1B and B 2A received approval to acquire lesser numbers of aircraft for operational use Donnini found that an important part of each new bomber program appeared to be funding support through federal appropriations If the right amounts were appropriated the programs survived if lesser amounts were given chances for program failure were good however was funding support the deciding factor This book used multiple case studies and the unorthodox methodology of applied content analysis of Congressional budget hearings to examine Air Force efforts to fund the most recent main bombers it sought the B 70 B 1A B 1B and B 2A and to determine measurements of success The author s findings have implications concerning the way the United States handles procurement initiatives for major new weapon systems considered fundamental necessities for national defense

Evolution of the USAF Strategic Nuclear Bomber Deterrent George J. Refuto, 2023-04-28 About the Book In this research study former Defense Department consultant George Refuto traces the technological evolution of USAF long range strategic nuclear bomber aircraft during and after the Cold War as well as the development of their missions and utilization of US nuclear bombers in 21st century regional and global military threat scenarios Five distinct periods are covered in this study World War I 1914 1918 the Interwar Period 1919 1939 World War II 1939 1945 the Cold War 1946 1991 and the Post Cold War Period 1991 present with an emphasis on the latter two In his writing Refuto focuses on developing a model that encompasses bombing and air defense for each period and showing how concepts technologies and implementations of strategic bombing have changed and influenced the current level of development of the USAF strategic nuclear bomber force and doctrine and what is projected for the future About the Author George J Refuto is a former Defense Department consultant who has extensive academic and professional experience in the fields of military history weapon systems technology intelligence surveillance reconnaissance systems and US national security defense policy He has worked in both the defense and intelligence communities and holds a master s degree in International Affairs from Columbia University with specializations in US USSR strategic and theater tactical nuclear forces undersea and airborne naval weapons systems and Russian Soviet politics He has previously published Evolution of the US Sea based Nuclear Missile Deterrent Warfighting Capabilities and is working on a third book on the US ICBM deterrent

US Strategic and Defensive Missile Systems 1950-2004 Mark Berhow, 2012-09-20 For 40 years following the end of World War II the Western democratic governments and the Eastern Bloc Communist powers were locked in the ideological political and economic struggle of the Cold War The United States and the Soviet Union developed missile systems capable of delivering conventional and nuclear explosives against enemy massed bomber formations in the air and of delivering retaliatory nuclear payloads against ground targets located on distant continents The missile systems played both a defensive role and a potential offensive role which was parlayed to the public as deterrence against attack by the rival bloc This illustrated guide provides a detailed overview of the fixed launch site strategic missile systems of the United States

Strategic Bombing by the United States in World War II Stewart Halsey Ross, 2002-12-27 The United States relied heavily on bombing to defeat the Germans and the Japanese in World War II and air raids were touted as precision bombing in American propaganda But was precision possible over cloud covered Europe or a darkened Japanese countryside Could the vaunted Norden optical bombsight in fact drop bombs into pickle barrels as advertised Were the American aircrews well trained and well protected How good were their airplanes

What were the results of the costly raids This work sets suppositions against facts surrounding the United States use of strategic bombing in World War II Chapters cover the events leading up to World War II the start of the war the seers and the planners the airplanes bombs bombsights and aircrews the planes Germany used to defend itself against American planes the five cities Hamburg Dresden Tokyo Hiroshima and Nagasaki that experienced the most destruction and the U S Strategic Bombing Survey of the damage done by aerial bombing The book also probes the government s myth building statements that supported America s view of itself as a uniquely humanitarian nation and analyzes the role played by interservice rivalry battleship admirals against bomber generals

The B-58 Blunder George Holt Jr,2015-06-26 Highly effective weapons of war that often cost millions of dollars can easily end up in a trash pile due to quick and uninformed decisions This work is a case study on how the B 58 supersonic bomber came to a premature death in the U S military largely because of infighting among military and civilian leaders who failed to understand the value of this fantastic airplane It was a technological marvel for its time and the very best pilots and navigators were chosen to fly this unique aircraft At its maximum speed of 2.2 Mach 1 452 mph it was 21.2 times faster than the muzzle velocity of a .45 caliber bullet It could fly faster and out turn must fighters of its day and was also capable of flying close to tree top level just below the speed of sound It was nearly undetectable by enemy radars due to its speed and low radar cross section and was better at flying through heavy turbulence due to its solid delta wing design It had a highly accurate navigation and bombing system It had a capsule ejection system for the safety of the aircrew and was capable of getting airborne in only half the time required by other bombers Told for the first time this is the inside story that dispels the unproven myths surrounding the demise of the B 58 and why this magnificent airplane should have been saved Its loss from the nuclear armory was a severe blow to our Cold War deterrence strength The B 58 was a bomber that set the standard for fear in the heart of an enemy Its loss was a strategic mistake The author provides lessons learned and recommendations for military and civilian leaders going forward to hopefully prevent future blunders like what happened to the B 58
