The Wide Turn Toward Home:

Thunderbolt to War John Anderson, Steve Sperry, 2017-05-17 Thunderbolt to War gives a remarkable personal insight into the structure and operations of a leading USAAF Fighter Squadron in Britain during the Second World War. This theme is explored through the recorded thoughts and feelings of Clint Sperry, a skilled fighter pilot who was seconded to England with the 353rd Fighter Group, the rarely celebrated workhorse of Eighth Fighter Command. Despite the relative anonymity of the Group, the names of its charismatic leaders still resonate today, including the eighteen victory ace Walter Beckham and the aggressive Glenn E. Duncan. Clint and his colleagues suffered many frustrating and perilous experiences during the war; they encountered enemy fighters, flak, treacherous weather, and mechanical problems throughout the bloody battles over Europe. To survive was a lottery, but Clint's experience and aptitude served him well. This account follows the soaring successes and devastating traumas that Clint experienced, culminating in a vivid picture of a fighter pilot's war. He flew 106 missions in his favoured P47 Thunderbolt and was credited with destroying or probably destroying five enemy aircraft, in addition to destroying many targets on the ground by strafing and bombing. Clint was awarded three DFCs for his courage and gained the enduring respect of his son Steve and his friend John Anderson. Their richly illustrated account of his life pays tribute to a true American hero. Illustrations: 118 black and white illustrations. The Wide Road to Destruction Manuel Borda, 2010-11

Two diametrically opposite encounters take place at the same time but in different places. One celebrates the Goodisons' 25th wedding anniversary. The other hatches a plot to murder Paul Goodison. Pamela Goodison often reminds her husband that he is becoming spiritually and morally sterile. He no longer refers to the Gospel as his guiding light and is only concerned with accumulating wealth. The plotters build on envy and hate to commit the crime. After a failed attempt, Pamela is murdered, leaving Paul devastated. One killer is caught and sentenced, while the mastermind escapes and settles abroad. Paul decides to travel and expand his knowledge on emerging nations, particularly Barbados, Botswana, Burma, Egypt, and Zimbabwe. During his travels, he seeks new adventures. In his weakened state, Paul ends up having tawdry affairs and becomes involved in drug trafficking. He loses his self-control and his self-respect. Paul meets Wendy on a cruise ship, becomes involved, and reluctantly proposes to her, which makes him even more depressed because he doesn't really love her. Then Paul stumbles upon the man who murdered his wife.

Ecodramaturgies Lisa Woynarski, 2020-11-25 This book addresses theatre's contribution to the way we think about ecology, our relationship to the environment, and what it means to be human in the context of climate change. It offers a detailed study of the ways in which contemporary performance has critiqued and reimagined everyday ecological relationships in more just and equitable ways. The broad spectrum of ecologically oriented theatre and performance included here, largely from the UK, US, Canada, Europe, and Mexico, have problematised, reframed, and upended the pervasive and reductive images of climate change that tend to dominate the ecological imagination. Taking an inclusive approach, this book foregrounds marginalised perspectives and the multiple social and political forces that shape climate
