Understanding Moral Sentiments Darwinian Perspectives:

Understanding Moral Sentiments Hilary Putnam, 2017-09-08 This volume brings together leading scholars to examine Darwinian perspectives on morality from widely ranging disciplines evolutionary biology anthropology psychology philosophy and theology They bring not only varied expertise but also contrasting judgments about which and to what extent differing evolutionary accounts explain morality They also consider the implications of these explanations for a range of religious and non religious moral traditions The book first surveys scientific understandings of morality Chapters by Joan Silk and Christopher Boehm ask what primatology and anthropology tell us about moral origins Daniel Batson and Stephen Pinker provide contrasting accounts of how evolution shapes moral psychology and Jeffrey Schloss assesses a range of biological proposals for morality and altruism Turning to philosophical issues Martha Nussbaum argues that recognizing our animal nature does not threaten morality Stephen Pope and Timothy Jackson explore how Darwinian accounts of moral goodness both enrich and require understandings outside the sciences Hilary Putnam and Susan Neiman ask whether Darwin is truly useful for helping us to understand what morality actually is and how it functions The book is a balanced effort to assess the scientific merits and philosophical significance of emerging Darwinian perspectives on morality

Evolution and Human Culture Gregory F. Tague, 2016-04-26 Evolution and Human Culture argues that values beliefs and practices are expressions of individual and shared moral sentiments Much of our cultural production stems from what in early hominins was a caring tendency both the care to share and a self care to challenge others Topics cover prehistory mind biology morality comparative primatology art and aesthetics The book is valuable to students and scholars in the arts including moral philosophers who would benefit from reading about scientific developments that impact their fields For biologists and social scientists the book provides a window into how scientific research contributes to understanding the arts and humanities The take home point is that culture does not transcend nature rather culture is an evolved moral behavior

Issues in Science and Theology: Do Emotions Shape the World? Dirk Evers, Michael Fuller, Anne Runehov, Knut-Willy Sæther, 2016-04-14 This volume examines emotions and emotional well being from a rich variety of theological philosophical and scientific and therapeutic perspectives To experience emotion is a part of being human but what are emotions How can theology philosophy and the natural sciences unpack the nature and content of emotions This volume is based on contributions to the 15th European Conference on Science and Theology held in Assisi Italy It brings together contributions from scholars of various academic backgrounds from around the world whose individual insights are made all the richer by their juxtaposition with those from experts in other fields leading to a unique exchange of ideas

Shadow Sophia Celia E. Deane-Drummond, 2021-02-25 Why do humans who seem to be exemplars of virtue also have the capacity to act in atrocious ways What are the roots of tendencies for sin and evil A popular assumption is that it is our animalistic natures that are responsible for human immorality and sin while our moral nature curtails and contains such tendencies through human powers of freedom and higher reason This book challenges such assumptions as being far too simplistic Through a careful engagement with evolutionary and psychological literature Celia Deane Drummond argues that tendencies towards vice are more often than not distortions of the very virtues that are capable of making us good After beginning with Augustine's classic theory of original sin the book probes the philosophical implications of sin's origins in dialogue with the philosophy of Paul Ricoeur Different vices are treated in both individual and collective settings in keeping with a multispecies approach Areas covered include selfishness pride violence anger injustice greed envy gluttony deception lying lust despair anxiety and sloth The work of Thomas Aquinas helps to illuminate and clarify much of this discussion on vice including those vices which are more distinctive for human persons in community with other beings Such an approach amounts to a search for the shadow side of human nature shadow sophia Facing that shadow is part of a fuller understanding of what makes us human and thus this book is a contribution to both theological anthropology and theological ethics Ideological Fixation Azar Gat, 2022-10-04 Ideological divides and clashes have reemerged with great intensity throughout the world In the United States they have become particularly venomous Each side in America's escalating ideological civil war charges the other with concocting fake news and alternative facts The other side is widely viewed as malicious irrational or downright stupid and often as barely legitimate People are deaf to claims about reality that come from the opposite camp no matter how valid they might be In exploring this phenomenon the book combines insights from evolutionary psychology regarding the nature of some of our deepest proclivities with a broad sweep through history It proceeds from the Stone Age to the rise of civilization the great religions and modernity to a critique of fundamental factual premises that underlie some of the major debates dominating today's liberal democracies not least the United States The Human Being, the World and God Anne L.C. Runehov, 2016-09-26 This book offers a philosophical analysis of what it is to be a human being in all her aspects It analyses what is meant by the self and the I and how this feeling of a self or an I is connected to the brain It studies specific cases of brain disorders based on the idea that in order to understand the common one has to study the specific The book shows how the self is thought of as a three fold emergent self comprising a relationship between an objective neural segment a subjective neural segment and a subjective transcendent segment It explains that the self in the world tackles philosophical problems such as the problem of free will the problem of evil the problem of human uniqueness and empathy It demonstrates how the problem of time also has its place here For many people the world includes ultimate reality hence the book provides an analysis and evaluation of different relationships between human beings and Ultimate Reality God The book presents an answer to the philosophical problem of how one could understand divine action in the world The Nature and Limits of Human Understanding Philip Nicholas Johnson-Laird, 2003-05 This book is an exploration of human understanding from the perspectives of psychology philosophy biology and theology The six contributors among the most internationally eminent in their fields are Lynne Rudder Baker Professor of Philosophy University of Massachusetts Brian Hebblethwaite lectured in the Victorian Age James C. Livingston, 2007-05-31 The central purpose of this book is to offer an account of crucial intellectual challenges to traditional British theology challenges that provoked wide ranging discussions and decisively shaped British theology In several instances they resulted in rather fundamental reconceptions of traditional doctrine and belief Not all of the conclusions reached in these debates proved enduring and some efforts to accomodate theology to advances in the sciences proved spurious or unnecessary Yet even the ill fated forays and speculations were efforts to respond to new genuine questions that required answers Livingston the dean of Victorian religious history approaches this subject from a new perspective By 1860 the religious discussion in Britain had broadened significantly in two ways First the examination of critical theological issues had moved outside the bounds of the established Church of England and its three dominant parties The discussion now engaged highly respected Roman Catholic Nonconformist and secular thinkers of impressive range Second the deeper and more consequential debates on matters touching on religion were no longer dominated by clerics and theologians Livingston demonstrates that the late Victorian decades were a time of vitality and creativity in the educated public s discussion of critical religious and theological matters Livingston reconceptualizes British religious thought in the last decades of the nineteenth century and the first decade of the twentieth The Presbyterian Quarterly , 1887
