Landmark Essays on Rhetorical Genre Studies Carolyn R. Miller, Amy J. Devitt, 2024-11-01 Landmark Essays on Rhetorical Genre Studies gathers major works that have contributed to the recent rhetorical reconceptualization of genre. A lively and complex field developed over the past 30 years, Rhetorical Genre Studies is central to many current research and teaching agendas. This collection, which is organized both thematically and chronologically, explores genre research across a range of disciplinary interests but with a specific focus on rhetoric and composition. With introductions by the co-editors to frame and extend each section, this volume helps readers understand and contextualize both the foundations of the field and the central themes and insights that have emerged. It will be of particular interest to students and scholars working on topics related to composition, rhetoric, professional and technical writing, and applied linguistics.

Becoming a Teacher of Writing in Elementary Classrooms Donna Kalmbach Phillips, Mindy Legard Larson, 2015-12-22 Becoming a Teacher of Writing in Elementary Classrooms nurtures teachers' identities as writers, connects to the realities of writing instruction in real and diverse classrooms, and encourages critical and creative thinking. This text is about writing instruction as a journey teachers and students embark on together. The focus is on learning how to teach writing through specific teaching and learning structures found in the Writing Studio: mini-lessons, teacher and peer conferencing, guided writing, and sharing/celebrating and broadcasting writing. Pedagogical features include teaching structures and strategies, Problematising Practice, classroom scenarios, assessment resources, and a Companion Website. Because a teacher who views him or herself as a writer is best positioned to implement the Writing Studio, a parallel text, Becoming a Writer, gives readers space to consider who they are as a writer, their personal process as a writer, and who they might become as a writer.

The Politics of English Second Language Writing Assessment in Global Contexts Todd Ruecker, Deborah Crusan, 2018-04-17 Reflecting the internationalization of the field of second language writing, this book focuses on political aspects and pedagogical issues of writing instruction and testing in a global context. High stakes assessment impacts the lives of second language L2 writers and their teachers around the world, be it the College English Test in China, Common Core aligned assessments in the U.S., English proficiency tests in Poland, or the material conditions such as access to technology, training, and other resources affecting a classroom. With contributions from authors working in ten different countries in a variety of institutional contexts, the chapters examine the uses and abuses of various writing-related assessments and the policies that determine their form and use. Representing a diverse range of contexts, methods, and disciplines, the authors jointly call for more equitable testing systems that consider the socioeconomic, psychometric, affective, institutional, and needs of all students who strive to gain access to education and employment opportunities related to English language proficiency.

Writing Assignments Across University Disciplines Roger Graves, 2017-12-07 Writing Assignments Across the University Curriculum as a whole asks and answers these questions: What kinds of documents do students write in a wide range of university degree programs in Canada?

How do instructors structure those writing assignments That is who is the audience for the assignments Do students get formative feedback as they develop their documents Do the patterns we found in a small liberal arts college Graves Hyland and Samuels 2010 occur in other kinds of universities We took our cue from an article by Anson and Dannels 2009 who pointed us toward the idea that students experience a curriculum through their degree progress in an academic program Consequently we needed to map the writing assignments according to how different departments organized these degree programs Results that were organized by curricular unit departments faculties or colleges or programs units were more significant than general statistics because students would progress through these courses to a degree Several chapters in the book describe how this kind of curricular mapping provided a spark for curricular reform in Engineering Education and an entire small university The last two chapters report on the instructors perspective on their assignments what they were intending to do and why they both resisted and engaged in curricular discussions

Putting Writing Research into Practice Gary A. Troia, Rebecca K. Shankland, Anne Heintz, 2010-04-29 What are the most effective methods for teaching writing across grade levels and student populations What kind of training do teachers need to put research validated methods into practice This unique volume combines the latest writing research with clear cut recommendations for designing high quality professional development efforts Prominent authorities describe ways to help teachers succeed by using peer coaching cross disciplinary collaboration lesson study and other professional development models All aspects of instruction and assessment are addressed including high stakes writing assessments applications of technology motivational issues writing in different genres and subject areas and teaching struggling writers

Learning and Teaching Genre Aviva Freedman, Peter Medway, 1994 This collection examines academic genres types of writing produced by students in secondary school and college from the perspective of genre as social action Such a perspective expands the understanding of what students do when they learn new school genres of what teachers and institutions do to enhance and constrain such learning and of what all this signifies for conceptions of writing pedagogy The book begins with an overview of the reconception of genre study The essays that follow have an interest in genre particularly those that appear in educational settings as instances of either student reading or writing Common motifs recur throughout questions are raised concerning learning and teaching new genres the ideological power of genres read and written and the power of the teacher curriculum planner or student to invent new genres or to resist and subvert those that exist Throughout the contributors give detailed accounts of successful classroom practices Learning and Teaching Genre brings recent developments in research and thinking about written genres to the attention of high school and college teachers and illustrates how that work can effectively inform classroom practice

Teaching Writing to Children in Indigenous Languages Ari Sherris, Joy Kreeft Peyton, 2019-02-18 This volume brings together studies of instructional writing practices and the products of those practices from diverse Indigenous languages and cultures By analyzing a rich diversity of contexts Finland Ghana Hawaii Mexico Papua New Guinea and more through biliteracy complexity and genre theories this book explores and demonstrates critical components of writing pedagogy and development Because the volume focuses on Indigenous languages it questions center margin perspectives on schooling and national language ideologies which often limit the number of Indigenous languages taught the domains of study and the age groups included

Academic Writing and Genre Ian Bruce, 2008-04-07 The focus of this book is the use of genre based approaches to teaching academic writing Genre based courses enable second language learners to integrate their linguistic organisational and contextual knowledge in a variety of different tasks The book reviews pedagogical approaches to genre through English for Specific Purposes and Systemic Functional Linguistics to present a synthesis of the current research being undertaken in the field From this theoretical base Ian Bruce proposes a new model of genre based approaches to academic writing and analyses the ways in which this can be implemented in pedagogy and curriculum design Academic Writing and Genre is a cutting edge monograph which will be essential reading for researchers in applied linguistics

Student and Teacher Writing Motivational Beliefs Steve Graham, Gary A. Troia, Gustaf Bernhard Uno Skar, 2024-06-21 The study of students motivational beliefs about writing and how such beliefs influence writing has increased since the publication of John Hays 1996 model of writing This model emphasized that writers motivational beliefs influence how and what they write Likewise increased attention has been devoted in recent years to how teachers motivational beliefs about writing especially their efficacy to teach writing impact how writing is taught and how students progress as writers As a result there is a need to bring together in a Research Topic studies that examine the role and influence of writing beliefs Historically the psychological study of writing has focused on what students write or the processes they apply when writing Equally important but investigated less often are studies examining how writing is taught and how teachers efforts contribute to students writing What has been less prominent in the psychological study of writing are the underlying motivational beliefs that drive or inhibit students writing or serve as catalysts for teachers actions in the classroom when teaching writing This Research Topic will bring together studies that examine both students and teachers motivational beliefs about teaching writing This will include studies examining the operation of such beliefs how they develop cognitive and affective correlates how writing motivational beliefs can be fostered and how they are related to students writing achievement By focusing on both students and teachers beliefs the Research Topic will provide a more nuanced and broader picture of the role of motivation beliefs in writing and writing instruction This Research Topic includes papers that address students motivational beliefs about writing teachers motivational beliefs about writing or teaching writing Students motivational beliefs about writing include beliefs about the value and utility of writing writing competence attitudes toward writing goal orientation motives for writing identity epistemological underpinnings writing and attributions for success failure as examples Teacher motivational include these same judgements as well as beliefs about their preparation and their students competence and progress as writers to provide additional examples This Research Topic is interested in papers that examine how such beliefs operate develop are related to other cognitive and affective variables how they are impacted by instruction and how they are related to students writing performance Submitted studies can include original research both quantitative qualitative or mixed methods meta analysis and reviews of the literature Grade 3, Report ,2002 Which Degree Guide ,2001 Three Genres Stephen Minot,1993 Stephen Minot s THREE GENRES gives students a thorough introduction to poetry fiction and drama writing and addresses the dynamics of the creative process while providing a nontechnical analysis of each genre Each genre section is self contained features complete works as examples and provides advice on how to begin writing creatively in the genre The advice given is practical and Minot encourages students to work on their own NEW to the Seventh Edition Troubleshooting Guide topics that often give students trouble are arranged alphabetically with page references for easy access A chapter on Dialogue in Fiction THREE GENRES encourages students to find their own voices as writers Which Degree Directory Series ,2000 Genre Across The Curriculum Anne Herrington,Charles Moran,2005-02-24 Genre across the Curriculum will function as a good textbook one not for the student but for the teacher and one with an eye on the context of writing Here you will find models of practice descriptions written by teachers who have integrated the teaching of genre into their pedagogy in ways that both support and empower the student writer While authors here look at courses across disciplines and across a range of genres they are similar in presenting genre as situated within specific classrooms disciplines and institutions Their assignments embody the pedagogy of a particular teacher and student responses here embody students prior experiences with writing In each chapter the authors define a particular genre define the learning goals implicit in assigning that genre explain how they help their students work through the assignment and finally discuss how they evaluate the writing their students do in response to their teaching The Articulate Classroom Prue Goodwin,2001 An edited collection of articles by leading educationalists and teacher educators on the place of talk in the primary curriculum Each chapter reflects on theoretical aspects of oracy translated into manageable practice Articles explore the importance of talk in learning Nepos' Biographies as Encomia Ira Mark Milne,1994

The Rhetoric and Ideology of Genre Richard M. Coe,Lorelei Lingard,Tatiana Teslenko,2002 This book takes up issues of current concern in composition studies sociolinguistics and ESL issues concerning academic literacy critical literacy expressive versus cognitive approaches to the teaching of writing and the like It does so in a practical experiential way drawing on events in classrooms in universities in South Africa and the United States The contrast between the South African context and the American as well as their surprising parallels highlight certain questions concerning the teaching of literacy in a dramatic way so that theory and practice are brought together In contrast to writing programs that follow a textbook or a planned sequence of study the authors describe a narrative pedagogy that encourages students to find a direction and choose activities suggested by their own concerns and ongoing lives Publisher Which Degree in Britain ,1999 A comprehensive guide to full time degree courses institutions and towns in Britain Which Degree? ,1990

Reading/writing Connections in the K-2 Classroom Leah Mermelstein, 2006 Reading Writing Connections in the K 2 Classroom demonstrates how through careful explicit assessing planning and teaching every student can understand the relationship between reading and writing The text is filled with practical classroom strategies based on both theory and research Focused on the goal of understanding the relationship between reading and writing the text demonstrates how to move students between the two to become more skillful readers and writers In three parts the text explores the essential understandings needed to use the reading writing connection demonstrates how planning helps to use the reading writing connection and outlines teaching strategies to use the connection to strengthen your everyday encounters with students Assessment is integrated into each chapter providing a clear image of what it looks like to assess in the service of student learning Practical ways to integrate phonemic awareness phonics word study and spelling into planning and teaching reading and writing are incorporated throughout Word study is integrated into every chapter to ensure a systematic approach to the topic
