Thomas Telford Master Builder Of Roads And Canals:

Thomas Telford Anthony Burton,2015-06-17 Thomas Telford s life was extraordinary born in the Lowlands of Scotland where his father worked as a shepherd he ended his days as the most revered engineer in the world known punningly as The Colossus of Roads He was responsible for some of the great works of the age such as the suspension bridge across the Menai Straits and the mighty Pontcysyllte aqueduct He built some of the best roads seen in Britain since the days of the Romans and constructed the great Caledonian Canal designed to take ships across Scotland from coast to coast He did as much as anyone to turn engineering into a profession and was the first President of the newly formed Institution of Civil Engineers All this was achieved by a man who started work as a boy apprentice to a stonemason rn He was always intensely proud of his homeland and was to be in charge of an immense programme of reconstruction for the Highlands that included building everything from roads to harbours and even designing churches He was unquestionably one of Britain s finest engineers able to take his place alongside giants such as Brunel He was also a man of culture even though he had only a rudimentary education As a mason in his early days he had worked alongside some of the greatest architects of the day such as William Chambers and Robert Adams and when he was appointed County Surveyor for Shropshire early in his career he had the opportunity to practice those skills himself designing two imposing churches in the county and overseeing the renovation of Shrewsbury Castle Even as a boy he had developed a love of literature and throughout his life wrote poetry and became a close friend of the Poet Laureate Robert Southey He was a man of many talents who rose to the very top of his profession but never forgot his roots he kept his old masons tools with him to the end of his days rn There are few official monuments to this great man but he has no need of them the true monuments are the structures that he left behind that speak of a man who brought about a revolution in transport and civil engineering

Thomas Telford Anthony Burton,2015 Born in the Lowlands of Scotland and beginning his career as a boy apprentice to a stonemason Thomas Telford ended his days as the most revered engineer in the world known punningly as The Colossus of Roads He was responsible for some of the great works of the age such as the suspension bridge across the Menai Straits and the mighty Pontcysyllte aqueduct as well as some of the best roads in Britain and the great Caledonian Canal He did as much as anyone to turn engineering into a profession and was the first President of the newly formed Institute of Civil Engineers Publisher s description Projects: A Very Short Introduction Andrew Davies,2017-10-19 What is a project How are projects organized to deal with a complex rapidly changing and uncertain world Why are projects the organization of the future A project is a temporary organization and one time process established to achieve a desired outcome Projects range in size from small teams to large international joint ventures and temporary coalitions of public and private organizations What distinguishes projects from all other organizational activities such as mass produced products and services is that a project is finite in duration lasting from hours days or weeks to years and in some cases decades Each project is disposable It brings together people and resources to accomplish a goal and when the goal is accomplished the organization disappears When projects are complex unpredictable and changing their plans have to be flexible and able to adjust to situations that cannot be foreseen at the outset In this Very Short Introduction Andrew Davies looks at how projects have developed since the industrial revolution to create the human built world in which we live work and play Considering some of our greatest endeavours such as the Erie Canal Apollo Moon landing Japanese product development and Chinese ecocity projects Davies identifies how projects are organized and managed to design and produce large and complex systems cope with fast changing conditions and deal with the immense uncertainties required to create breakthrough innovations in products and services He concludes by considering how projects could be organized to address the challenges facing the post industrial society of the 21st century
