Employing his expertise in interdisciplinary and Wittgenstein influenced methods Mikel Burley draws on works of ethnography and narrative fiction including Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov and Soyinka's Death and the King's Horseman to critically engage with existing approaches to the philosophy of religion and advocate a radical pluralist approach. Breaking away from the standard fixation on a narrow construal of theism, topics discussed include conceptions of compassion in Buddhist ethics, cannibalism in mortuary rituals, divine possession and animal sacrifice in Hindu Goddess worship and animism in indigenous traditions. Original and engaging, Burley's synthesis of philosophical, anthropological and literary elements expands and diversifies the philosophy of religion, providing an essential introduction for anyone interested in studying the radical plurality of forms that religion takes in human life.

The contributors combine a specific theoretical/methodological stance with a case study in which the literary articulation of a post-modern ethical/religious receptivity for the Other is demonstrated. They explicitly pay attention to the narrative/poetical and rhetorical structures and strategies of the texts that is to the tension between representation and performativity.
