Treating The Lifetime Health Effects Of Childhood Victimization:

Treating the Lifetime Health Effects of Childhood Victimization Kathleen A. Kendall-Tackett, 2003 Treating the Lifetime Health Effects of Childhood Victimization reports on the latest research in both child maltreatment and health psychology behavioral medicine and concisely outlines five critical pathways by which childhood abuse can negatively impact the health of your adult patients shows how each variable pertains to adult survivors and then how it is related to health Dozens of important studies are detailed and their implications for clinical practice set out clearly The book focuses on health care settings where health problems are most likely to surface Both health care and mental health professionals will find clinical management guidelines of direct practical use Treating the Lifetime Health Effects of Childhood Victimization Kathleen A. Kendall-Tackett, 2013 This text explains why and how child abuse can lead to long term chronic health problems for survivors and helps practitioners treat this vulnerable population without causing retraumatization It details frequently encountered immune system gastroenterological and gynecological problems among survivors and examines the implications for clinical practice as well as sets out specific treatment guidelines for the three most common symptoms encountered in health care settings Depression PTSD Chronic pain This is an indispensable guide for medical mental health and social service professionals

Childhood Victimization David Finkelhor, 2008-03-10 Children are the most criminally victimized segment of the population but the problem has been addressed in a highly fragmented way obscuring its true burden as well as the need for an integrated policy response David Finkelhor a longtime authority on child victimization and director of the Crimes against Children Research Center at the University of New Hampshire uses this book to propose and advocate for such a comprehensive and integrated perspective one he terms developmental victimology Researchers practitioners and policymakers will appreciate this sweeping treatment of an under researched phenomenon that has far reaching implications for how we respond to violence across the lifespan

Violence Prevention in Low- and Middle-Income Countries Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, 2008-02-22 The current state of science in violence prevention reveals progress promise and a number of remaining challenges In order to fully examine the issue of global violence prevention the Institute of Medicine in collaboration with Global Violence Prevention Advocacy convened a workshop and released the workshop summary entitled Violence Prevention in Low and Middle Income Countries The workshop brought together participants with a wide array of expertise in fields related to health criminal justice public policy and economic development to study and articulate specific opportunities for the U S government and other leaders with resources to more effectively support programming for prevention of the many types of violence Participants highlighted the need for the timely development of an integrated science based approach and agenda to support research clinical practice program development policy analysis and advocacy for violence prevention

Kendall-Tackett,2013-01-11 The Handbook of Women Stress and Trauma focuses on the stresses and traumas that are unique to the lives of women. It is the first text to merge research from the fields of trauma and women's health and development. Using a lifespan developmental approach, the text begins by addressing specific issues women face in their lives, drawing upon theories of development and exploring how women's relationships with others buffer or sometimes cause stress and trauma. Combining aspects of female development with empirical data from the fields of women's health, family violence, and stress and coping, this volume helps sensitive care providers to the specific needs of women exposed to traumatic events.
