Silvohorticulture Andy Dibben,Ben Raskin,2025-01-16 Dibben and Raskin offer an insightful inspiring but also exceptionally practical guide to integrating trees into annual cropping systems in this book we see how the phrase the sky s the limit has never been more applicable Jesse Frost author of The Living Soil Handbook An invaluable handbook for farmers growers and gardeners Silvohorticulture is the first book to offer a detailed practical guide on how to effectively integrate trees with vegetable growing offering information previously known only in the foresting world Drawing on the decades long experiences of Ben Raskin and Andy Dibben both of whom have designed and managed agroforestry systems and have extensive experience in commercial horticultural crop production this is the definitive book on the interaction between trees and crops covering the benefits of trees for edible crops and the potential for additional crops from trees plus crucial new information on how to fit trees into complex crop rotations as well as manipulating access to light Ben and Andy also reveal the latest research on how tree roots behave and importantly how that impacts your crops Agroforestry can bring immense benefits to farmers and growers not just optimizing yield but also improving soil managing pests and water increasing biodiversity and reducing costs System design must be customised to each grower s requirements and Silvohorticulture offers step by step detail that will allow you to manage your trees and crops successfully In this immensely practical guide the authors provide the technical details towards integrating trees with vegetables and other crops all while dispelling any preconceived notions that this idea reduces productivity or function In fact these systems might prove essential for farm resilience in a changing climate Steve Gabriel author of Silvopasture The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski, John Munsell, 2018-08-21 Collaboration and leadership strategies for long term success Fueled by the popularity of permaculture and agroecology community food forests are capturing the imaginations of people in neighborhoods towns and cities across the United States Along with community gardens and farmers markets community food forests are an avenue toward creating access to nutritious food and promoting environmental sustainability where we live Interest in installing them in public spaces is on the rise People are the most vital component of community food forests but while we know more than ever about how to design food forests the ways in which to best organize and lead groups of people involved with these projects has received relatively little attention In The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski and John Munsell dive into the civic aspects of community food forests drawing on observations group meetings and interviews at over 20 projects across the country and their own experience creating and managing a food forest They combine the stories and strategies gathered during their research with concepts of community development and project management to outline steps for creating lasting public food forests that positively impact communities Rather than rehash food forest design which classic books such as Forest Gardening and Edible Forest Gardens address in great detail The Community Food Forest Handbook uses systems thinking and draws on social change theory to focus on how to work with diverse groups of people when conceiving of designing and implementing a community food forest To find practical ground the authors use management phases to highlight the ebb and flow of community capitals from a project s inception to its completion They also explore examples of positive feedbacks that are often unexpected but offer avenues for enhancing the success of a community food forest The Community Food Forest Handbook provides readers with helpful ideas for building and sustaining momentum working with diverse public and private stakeholders integrating assorted civic interests and visions within one project creating safe and attractive sites navigating community policies positively affecting public perception and managing site evolution and adaptation Its concepts and examples showcase the complexities of community food forests highlighting the human resilience of those who learn and experience what is possible when they collaborate on a shared vision for their community. A highly useful guide based on the collective wisdom of people and communities who are defining this practice as they develop it on the ground. The thoughtful analysis of planning strategies and numerous case studies of active projects help us all understand what community food forests are and can be for the future. Steve Gabriel, author of Silvopasture and coauthor of Farming the Woods. The Carbon Farming Solution Eric Toensmeier, 2016. Miraculous Abundance Perrine Hervé-Gruyer, Charles Hervé-Gruyer, 2016. The Bec Hellouin model for growing food, sequestering carbon, creating jobs, and increasing biodiversity without using fossil fuels. When Charles and Perrine Hervé Gruyer set out to create their farm in an historic Normandy village, they had no idea just how much their lives would change. Neither one had ever farmed before. Charles had been circumnavigating the globe by sail, operating a floating school that taught students about ecology and indigenous cultures. Perrine had been an international lawyer in Japan. Each had returned to France to start a new life. Eventually, Perrine joined Charles in Normandy, and Le Ferme du Bec Hellouin was born. Bec Hellouin has since become a celebrated model of innovative ecological agriculture in Europe, connected to national and international organizations addressing food security, heralded by celebrity chefs, as well as the Slow Food movement, and featured in the inspiring Csar and COLCOA award winning documentary film Demain Tomorrow. Miraculous Abundance is the eloquent tale of the couple's evolution from creating a farm to sustain their family to delving into an experiment in how to grow the most food possible in the most ecological way possible and create a farm model that can carry us into a post carbon future when oil is no longer moving goods and services, energy is scarcer, and localization is a must. Today the farm produces a variety of vegetables using a mix of permaculture, bio intensive, four season, and natural farming techniques, as well as techniques gleaned from native cultures around the world It has some animals for eggs and milk horses for farming a welcome center a farm store a permaculture school a bread oven for artisan breads greenhouses a cidery and a forge It has also become the site of research focusing on how small organic farms like theirs might confront Europe s and the world s projected food crisis But in this honest and engaging account of the trials and joys of their uncompromising effort readers meet two people who are farming the future as much as they are farming their land They envision farms like theirs someday being the hub for a host of other businesses that can drive rural communities from bread makers and grain millers to animal care givers and other tradespeople Market farmers and home gardeners alike will find much in these pages but so will those who ve never picked up a hoe The couple s account of their quest to design an almost Edenlike farm hone their practices and find new ways to feed the world is an inspiring tale It is also a love letter to a future in which people increasingly live in rural communities that rely on traditional skills locally created and purveyed goods and services renewable energy and greater local governance but are also connected to the larger world The Permaculture Handbook Peter Bane,2012-06-01
