Wanderlust A Love Affair With Five Continents:

Wanderlust Elisabeth Eaves, 2011-05-24 Spanning 15 years of travel beginning when she is a sophomore in college Wanderlust documents Elisabeth Eaves's insatiable hunger for the rush of the unfamiliar and the experience of encountering new people and cultures Young and independent she crisscrosses five continents and chases the exotic both in culture and in romance In the jungles of Papua New Guinea she loses herself literally to an Australian tour guide in Cairo she reconnects with her high school sweetheart only to discover the beginning of a pattern that will characterize her life over the long term while long distance relationships work well for her traditional relationships do not Wanderlust however is more than a chronological conquest of men and countries at its core it's a journey of self discovery In the course of her travels Eaves finds herself and the sense of home she's been lacking since childhood and she sheds light on a growing culture of young women who have the freedom and inclination to define their own increasingly global lifestyles unfettered by traditional roles and conventions of past generations of women

Breathless Nancy Miller, 2013-11-05 In the early 1960s most middle class American women in their twenties had their lives laid out for them marriage children and life in the suburbs Most but not all Breathless is the story of a girl who represents those who rebelled against conventional expectations Paris was a magnet for those eager to resist domesticity and like many young women of the decade Nancy K Miller was enamored of everything French from perfume and Hermès scarves to the writing of Simone de Beauvoir and the New Wave films of Jeanne Moreau After graduating from Barnard College in 1961 Miller set out for a year in Paris with a plan to take classes at the Sorbonne and live out a great romantic life inspired by the movies After a string of sexual misadventures she gave up her short lived freedom and married an American expatriate who promised her a lifetime of three star meals and five star hotels But her husband wasn't who he said he was and she eventually had to leave Paris and her dreams behind This stunning memoir chronicles a young woman's coming of age tale and offers a glimpse into the intimate lives of girls before feminism

Where I Belong is who I Am. The Search for Identity in Elisabeth Eaves' "Wanderlust: A Love

Affair with Five Continents" Marie-Kristin Hofmann, 2017-08-29 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1.0 University of Mannheim Lehrstuhl für Anglistische Literatur und Kulturwissenschaft language English abstract Travel writing helps travel writers to redefine their identity and to revise their concept of home as well as to determine its relative position in the world when using it as a frame of reference In Wanderlust A Love Affair with Five Continents Elisabeth Eaves both author and protagonist renegotiates these two concepts home and identity in her inner journey of self exploration Making use of a qualitative and explorative approach this paper investigates the question of how the search for identity and belonging is fashioned in the book First the theoretical part of the paper relates the concepts of home and identity to infer how home can function as a source of identity These theoretical frameworks are then applied in the subsequent section to assess the manner and success of Elisabeth's strategies of identity construction providing an answer to the question whether her mobile lifestyle as a modern nomad leads to homelessness and lack of identity Finally the analysis section breaks down the narrative techniques Elisabeth uses to secure her public identity as travel writer and relates them to the construction of her personal identity
