Cracking the Wall Patricia Turner Mitchell, 1993

The Fall of the Berlin Wall As a Direct Cause for German Reunification Hendrik Doobe, 2011-07 Essay from the year 2002 in the subject History of Germany Modern History grade IB Diploma full score Waterford Kamhlaba United World College of Southern Africa course History language English abstract This investigation including the examination of unpublished primary sources accounts for the Fall of the Berlin Wall as a historical event The disintegration of the Warsaw Pact along with the interior social economic and political problems in the GDR are examined as long term causes as well as the influence of the media the church and the citizens of the GDR themselves as main players in the short term Additionally the immediate events in the beginning of November 1989 are scrutinized in connection with the Fall of the Wall. The research question in two parts is whether the events around the 9th of November 1989 can be labelled peaceful revolution and what the causes for that revolution are. What is the historical significance of the event and what was it derived from. Consistent with the primary and secondary sources used, the essay concludes that the Fall of the Wall was indeed a peaceful revolution. Examining the development towards pluralism and democracy by the USSR and her satellite states as the foundation for that revolution, the essay scrutinizes both the work of the media with its fuelling effect and the actions of the church as a replacement public as causes for the incident. The state with its restrictive forces impaling every aspect of public life, producing social economic as well as political disadvantages for its citizens, is the reason for opposition developing. Encountering this opposition, the party loses control over the people and misses a historical chance. Instead of selling the Fall of the Berlin Wall as a sovereign decision for empowerment of the GDR's citizens, it has to watch how the means of isolating them from foreign influences is dismantled. Therefore, the significance of the 9th of November 1989 lies in the irreversibility.

Lessons from the Wall Rachel Joy Tancioco Estrella, 2007 Using a framework that combines critical pedagogy with cultural studies and critical art theory, I examine the educative value of muralism by observing the mural making process and by interviewing muralists involved in the creation of The Great Wall of Los Angeles, a mural that documents the histories of people of color in California. In this case study, I investigate what students learn as a result of participating in this politically charged collaborative arts project, dividing my results into four major learning domains: historical, political, social, and self.

Breaking the Walls of Silence, 1998 Twenty percent of all women coming into the New York state prison system either have AIDS or are HIV positive. In response to this very real scenario, a group of inmates at the women's prison at Bedford Hills, New York, created the A C E AIDS Counseling and Education Program. This book documents the A C E Program from its beginnings, recorded in the women's own voices, and details nine workshops that anyone can use. 35 illustrations and photos.

Berlin Since the Wall's End John Alexander Williams, 2008 In the nearly nineteen years since the destruction of the Wall that divided East from West Berlin, Germans have struggled with the challenges of reunification. The task has been daunting: unifying two countries with a common language but mutually hostile political and economic systems. Contrary to the optimistic predictions of 1989-1990, reunification has aggravated many of Germany's problems within the larger context of globalization. Berlin, divided epicenter of the Cold War, Germany's largest city and the capital since 1999 has been forced to confront the challenges of reunification with particular urgency This book presents the work of six scholars who met at Bradley University TM s annual Berlin seminar in June 2006 to discuss the recent past and the future prospects of the German metropolis Two broad concerns society and historical memory emerged during the seminar and are reflected in these scholars TM writings The first section of the book assesses how Berliners have reunified the city through urban planning and social economic and cultural policies These chapters also speak to pressing contemporary issues of immigration citizenship and cultural diversity The essays in the book TM s second part trace how historical memory has been shaped and politically contested in German culture both in the divided nation and since 1989 Berlin Since the Wall TM s End casts light on a metropolis that has been scarred but not destroyed by the upheavals of recent history The Writing on the Wall Gail Thain Parker,1979 Feng Shui in the Garden Nancilee Wydra,1997 Feng shui master Nancilee Wydra presents hundreds of practical easily implemented ideas for creating an exquisite outdoor environment in accordance with the principles of this ancient Chinese art 80 illustrations Breaking Down Walls Raleigh Washington,1994-01-11 Two authors with broad experience in inner city life and ministry share eight practical and biblically based principles that they believe will contribute to the healing of racial strife in America Global Quality Richard Tabor Greene,1993 Quality improvement expert Greene extrapolates currently fully formed approaches as well as nascent approaches to quality further along their lines of development so that readers can gain competitive advantage over international competitors in quality He organizes the profusion of quality approach
