Palestinian Literature and Film in Postcolonial Feminist Perspective Anna Ball, 2012-11-27

Palestinian Literature and Film in Postcolonial Feminist Perspective is the first sustained study of gender consciousness in the Palestinian creative imagination Drawing on concepts from postcolonial feminist theory Ball analyses a range of literary and filmic works by major creative practitioners including Michel Khleifi Liana Badr Annemarie Jacir Elia Suleiman Mona Hatoum and Suheir Hammad and reveals a hitherto unrecognized trajectory in gender consciousness under development in the Palestinian imagination from the start of the twentieth century The book explores how these works resonate with questions of power identity nation resistance and self representation in the Palestinian imagination more broadly and asks how these gender conscious narratives transform our understanding of Palestine s struggle for postcoloniality Working at the cusp of postcolonial feminist and cultural enquiry Ball seeks to open up vital new directions in the interdisciplinary study of Palestine Others Charles Fernyhough, 2019-07-11 I cannot think of a time in living memory when this book would have been more urgent or more necessary Sarah Perry Sunday Times bestselling author of The Essex Serpent There are some books which are necessary and there are some which are enjoyable and heart wrenching and wonderful this is all of these things A book to give to everyone you love Daisy Johnson Man Booker shortlisted author of Everything Under It doesn't take much familiarity with the news to see that the world has become a more hate filled place In Others a group of writers explore the power of words to help us to see the world as others see it and to reveal some of the strangeness of our own selves Through stories poems memoirs and essays we look at otherness in a variety of its forms from the dividing lines of politics and the anonymising forces of city life through the disputed identities of disability gender and neurodiversity to the catastrophic imbalances of power that stands in the way of social equality Whether the theme is a casual act of racism or an everyday interaction with someone whose experience seems impossible to imagine the collection challenges us to recognise our own otherness to those we would set apart as different Profits from this book will be donated to Stop Hate UK which works to raise awareness of hate crime and encourage its reporting and Refugee Action which provides advice and support to refugees and asylum seekers in the UK Contributors include Leila Aboulela Gillian Allnutt Damian Barr Noam Chomsky Rishi Dastidar Peter Ho Davies Louise Doughty Salena Godden Colin Grant Sam Guglani Matt Haig Aamer Hussein Anjali Joseph A L Kennedy Joanne Limburg Rachel Mann Tiffany Murray Sara Novi Edward Platt Alex Preston Tom Shakespeare Kamila Shamsie Will Storr Preti Taneja and Marina Warner An impressive cluster of names New Statesman Another superlative anthology from Unbound The Bookseller The Case for Reduction Christoph F. E. Holzhey, Jakob Schillinger, 2022-10-11 Critical discourse hardly knows a more devastating charge against theories technologies or structures than that of being reductive Yet expansion and growth cannot fare any better today This volume suspends anti reductionist reflexes to focus on the experiences and practices of different kinds of reduction their generative potentials ethics and politics Can their violences be contained and their benefits transported to other contexts Biblical Figures in Israel's Colonial Political Theology Silvana Rabinovich, 2022-06-08 This book reveals and counteracts the misuse of biblical texts and figures in political theology in an attempt to decolonialize the reading of the Old Testament In the framework of Critical Theory the book questions readings that inform the State of Israel's military apparatus It embraces Martin Buber's pacifist vision and Edward Said's perspective on Orientalism influenced by critical authors such as Amnon Raz Krakotzkin Ilan Papp Shlomo Sand Idith Zertal and Enrique Dussel's After Savagery Hamid Dabashi, 2025-09-30 Written during a genocide After Savagery reveals the ethical bankruptcy of Western philosophy and how it undergirds the erasure of the colonized The death toll in Gaza continues to rise a cold lifeless number representing entire communities crushed under the weight of settler colonialism What remains of the theories we use to understand our world With lyrical and lucid fury Hamid Dabashi exposes the racist roots of Western philosophy demanding that readers overcome its pernicious phantom of relevance Rather than perceiving the West as giving carte blanche to Israel Dabashi insists that Israel must be understood as its quintessence If Israel is the West and the West is Israel then Palestine is the world and the world is Palestine Holding to glimmers from revolutionary works of literature and film Dabashi argues in grief and love that the wretched of the earth need poetry after barbarism and that Palestine is the site of a liberated imagination

Women's War Stories Michelle Hartman, Malek Abisaab, 2022-09-09 Women have consistently been left out of the official writing of Lebanese history and nowhere is this more obvious than in writing on the Lebanese Civil War As more and more histories of the war begin to circulate few include any in depth discussion of the multiple roles women played in wartime Lebanon Fewer still address the essential issues of women's work and their creative production such as literature performance art and filmmaking Developed out of a larger oral history project collecting and archiving the ways in which women narrated their experiences of the Lebanese Civil War this book focuses on a wide range of subjects all framed as women telling their war stories Each of the six chapters centers on women who worked or created art during the war revealing in their own words the challenges struggles and resistance they faced during this tumultuous period of Lebanese history

Natures in Translation Alan Bewell, 2017-01-02 Understanding the dynamics of British colonialism and the enormous ecological transformations that took place through the mobilization and globalized management of natures For many critics Romanticism is synonymous with nature writing for representations of the natural world appear during this period with a freshness concreteness depth and intensity that have rarely been equaled Why did nature matter so much to writers of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries And how did it play such an important role in their understanding of themselves and the world In Natures in Translation Alan Bewell argues that there is no Nature in the singular only natures that have undergone transformation through time and across space He examines how writers as disparate as Erasmus and Charles Darwin Joseph Banks Gilbert White William Bartram William Wordsworth John Clare and Mary Shelley understood a world in which natures were traveling and resettling the globe like never before Bewell presents British natural history as a translational activity aimed at globalizing local natures by making them mobile exchangeable comparable and representable Bewell explores how colonial writers in the period leading up to the formulation of evolutionary theory responded to a world in which new natures were coming into being while others disappeared For some of these writers colonial natural history held the promise of ushering in a cosmopolitan nature in which every species through trade and exchange might become a true citizen of the world Others struggled with the question of how to live after the natures they depended upon were gone Ultimately Natures in Translation demonstrates that far from being separate from the dominant concerns of British imperial culture nature was integrally bound up with the business of empire
