

Comparison of IAS 39 and IFRS 9: The Analysis of Replacement

Mojca Gornjak

International School of Social and Business Studies, Slovenia

The financial crisis had an impact on international financial reporting standards. The International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) prepared a new standard for financial instruments. The replacement changes the view to accounting data in financial statements and changes the view to data in organizations, especially banks, and financial institutions. Historical prices are replaced with expectation in the future, which is not anymore a decision of the managers but has its basis on business operations.

Keywords: international financial reporting standards, IFRS 9, expected credit loss, business model, impairment

Introduction

The IASB published a final version of the international financial reporting standard IFRS 9 – Financial instruments in July 2014, which will replace the current international accounting standard IAS 39 – Financial instruments on 1st January 2018. All organizations that have financial instruments in the statement of financial position have to replace the existing IAS 39 with IFRS 9. The replacement has a significant impact on accounting itself, processes, activities, decision-making and ultimately on financial statements. This article presents the comparison between standards, its pros and cons, a fair value accounting, impairment of financial instruments and changes in decision making in the organizations.

IAS 39 and IFRS 9: Pros and Cons of Replacement

IFRS 9 introduces accounting on the basis of principles, while IAS 39 is based on rules, despite the fact that these rules allow the decision makers to take more stable and predictable decisions in an unstable environment (Scapens, 1994, p. 310). Criticism to the rules-based approach includes the fact that rules do not adapt and are useless in an environment with innovative transactions, while criticism to the standards based on the principles approach include the lack of operational guidance (Benston, Bromwich, & Wagenhofer, 2006, p. 169). With the introduction of standards based on principles, a comparison across organizations is no longer possible, because standards require from the organizations the determination of the
