The Red Sash Ramona Aitken MD, 2017-02-07 This book describes my coming of age in Communist Romania a land of austere economics paltry individual freedoms but chockfull of humor and common sense It continues with my arriving in America in the mid nineties to further my medical education The red sash refers to the symbol worn by dictator Nicolae Ceausescu during one of his multiple poses resembling royalty but transcending human decency Flight to Freedom Elena Rascol-Rady, 2015-04-25 Reverberating with testimonies of God s faithfulness in times of tribulation Flight to Freedom is the firsthand account of a Christian family s determination to do God s work despite constant danger Come alongside Elena as she opens a window to the dark decades after World War II when taking a stand or sharing Bibles became a path to prison Join her on spontaneous missions of mercy to remote villages Marvel at the strength and resolve of a young couple whose hopes often are dashed but whose faith brings them visions of better times Watch while God works even on the heart of a prison warden until a used car becomes the key to Vasile s release In 2012 Vasile finally received thousands of pages of government files and documents collected during years of bugging and surveillance by the communist Secret Police Flight to Freedom is more than an engaging and uplifting autobiography It is an enduring triumph of the soul and a witness to the goodness of God Oranges at Christmas in a Communist Country Cristina G.,2017-05-13 What are these Mum I curiously asked Balls But you don t play with balls You can give them to Sebi my little brother My mother burst into tears and I couldn t understand why I ve never seen an orange before maybe only on television but as it was the black and white era I didn t know they were in fact orange There were many things we didn t see or imagined during the communist regime We only knew how to work the land follow the rules without questioning and praise the leaders of the country Every time I peel an orange that memory comes back exactly as that evening when I was overwhelmed by pain from seeing my mother crying and by happiness when understanding why she reacted so A memoir packed with inspirational true to fact stories of a Romanian woman born and raised during one of the most oppressive communist regimes of Eastern Europe Communism is an outstanding theory on paper a Utopia in reality is slavery Farmers children were required to work the land to reach the targets and pay the debts made by the irrational dictator Oppression persecution censure austerity brought people to their knees The population kept in the dark deprived of dignity and freedom revolted in the end On the 25th of December 1989 Nicolae and Elena Ceausescu the leaders of the Republic Socialist of Romania were shot dead Romanians were free However be careful what you wish for This memoir and Ten Years in Italy Three Weeks a Human are gathered in Humans Cursed by Geography in the Pursuit of Happiness Red Horizons Ion Mihai Pacepa,1990-04-15 A former chief of Romania s foreign intelligence service reveals the extraordinary corruption of the Nicolae Ceausescu government of Romania its brutal machinery of oppression and its Machiavellian relationship with the West An inside story of how Communist Party leaders really live Witnessing Romania's Century of Turmoil Nicolae Mărgineanu,2017 The story of psychologist Nicolae Mărgineanu s imprisonment and survival conveys in detail the impact of Communist rule in Romania While the Gods Were Silent Julius Scherzer,2006-07-01 This book is an autobiographical and historical narrative that starts in the 1930s and ends in 1963 the year of the authors arrival in the U S The narrative combines autobiography history and psychology to tell the story of the authors childhood teenage years and early adulthood It is a story that takes place in a corner of Eastern Europe under fascism and communism before during and after World War II The author describes his life under the Romanian fascists and communists as well as under the Soviets during the Stalin era The author grew up in a province that belonged to the Austrian Empire before World War I The province was annexed by the Kingdom of Romania taken over by the Soviets occupied by Romanian and German troops during World War II and later re occupied by the Soviets The author and his family lived under these different rulers and the narrative describes their life during those turbulent years The author also describes his life in communist Romania after the war between 1946 and 1963 as well as his brief stay in Austria Tulips and Tales from The Golden Age Camelia Andrei, 2024-03-14 I wanted to put in writing some of my memories of a childhood lived under communism which some people used to call Romania's Golden Age I had a lot of stories some of them sad some funny some of them unbelievable or unthinkable and decided to write this book so that one day my daughters Sofia and Elisabetta can learn about my life and the life of my family and country Everyone lived through Romania's last years of communism in their own way In this book I share my memories and tell my stories with the innocence of the child I was at the time Those of us who remember this period can now more or less look back and smile recalling the atmosphere the sensations and the objects that surrounded us We remember the people their habits and their sometimes bizarre ways of doing things For most Romanians of my generation these stories may evoke distant memories For those who didn't experience Romania's Golden Age I hope to let them feel a little of what it was like As my father was a military pilot we frequently moved from town to town This allowed him to accept better jobs which allowed us to have a better life But this came at the cost of my routine and my relationships with friends school companions teachers and neighbours Wherever we went there was fear and restrictions fed by a lack of food water electricity and petrol People were forced to attend political events your medical care was only as deep as your pockets and people were measured by how much gold and how many electrical appliances they possessed I was born in 1972 This book covers the period from my first memories in about 1975 until 1989 when the communist regime fell Each of the five chapters represents a stage of my life I have collected all my stories in this book most importantly so that they will not be forgotten With all its advantages and disadvantages this period is part of my life It taught me how to appreciate the little things as well as the big things like my family It taught me how to face difficult situations and helped me to become who I am today It is the umbilical cord that still connects me with my homeland even now that I am so far away I received great encouragement from my old Economics professor at the University of Bologna Grazia Mezzetti who encouraged me to write and publish the book in Italian My dear friend Chris Tyas encouraged me to translate it from Italian into English which I did during the empty and boring days of Covid 19 crisis Here it is now translated into English with the precious help of Jonathan Campion an English copywriter with a passion for autobiographies and stories from the old Communist Bloc Burying the Typewriter Carmen Bugan, 2012-07-03 Winner of the Bakeless Prize for Nonfiction a childhood memoir of political oppression and persecution during Romania's Ceausescu years Carmen Bugan grew up amid the bounty of the Romanian countryside on her grandparent's farm where food and laughter were plentiful But eventually her father's behavior was too disturbing to ignore He wept when listening to Radio Free Europe hid pamphlets in sacks of dried beans and mysteriously buried and reburied a typewriter When she discovered he was a political dissident she became anxious for him to conform However with her mother in the hospital and her sister at boarding school she was alone and helpless to stop him from driving off on one last desperate protest After her father's subsequent imprisonment Bugan was shunned by her peers at school and informed on by her neighbors She candidly struggled with the tensions of loving her hero father who caused the family so much pain When he returned from prison and the family was put under house arrest the Bugans were forced to chart a new course for the future A warm and intelligent debut Burying the Typewriter provides a poignant reminder of a dramatic moment in Eastern European history Once, Only the Swallows Were Free Gabrielle Gouch, 2014-05-22 If you appreciated Anna Funder's Stasiland you will find this first hand account of life in communist Romania fascinating What was it like to live and love in an atmosphere of mistrust and state paranoia Twenty five years after Gabrielle Gouch left her native land Transylvania communism collapsed and the author now an Australian returned to visit her half brother Tom The years of separation are difficult to erase but he opens up eventually In a cosy room with red Persian carpets and photographs of his mother gentle Tom shares stories of his life often funny sometimes heartbreaking but never self pitying Though the story is factual the author uses her strong eye for detail and the techniques of fiction to create this engaging and thought provoking account about ordinary people in turbulent times These sad and funny tales are interleaved with the story of the rest of the family from which Tom became estranged This memoir portrays the exodus of Jewish families from Romania and their arrival in the Promised Land a dream come true for some but a shock for others It explores issues of identity disability emigration and family relationships against a background of the major political events of the time from a perspective that challenges some accepted views An Iron Curtain Breakaway Audrey Syse Fahlberg, 2014-02-11 I was considering writing these memoirs for some time wondering if anybody will be interested to spend time reading something produced by a nonprofessional writer In the last twenty six years of my activity I was a full time professor of pathology at the University of South Carolina School of Medicine In this capacity I wrote scientific reports and reviews lecture handouts and protocols and a good number of grant proposals None of those would qualify as literature and they were not supposed to This is not said to excuse my lack of professional experience just to explain my hesitation in approaching this challenge I should add that English is actually only my third language Romanian being my native language and French that of my maternal grandmother and the rest of my family in France Born to Break the Spell SOPHY. LECOIA, 2025-08-26 Born to Break the Spell A Whisper from Back Then By Sophy Le coa Behind the Iron Curtain silence was survival but hope was rebellion In this luminous memoir Sophy Le coa takes readers back to her childhood in communist Romania where fear was a constant companion and freedom was only a dream With poetic honesty and flashes of humor she uncovers the hidden cost of silence and the unyielding power of the human spirit This is more than a story about surviving a regime it's about the courage to speak to dream and to finally break the spell that kept a family in fear The Voice Beneath the Quince Tree : a Memoir of Growing Up in Communist Romania Maria-Cristina Necula, 2024
