Body Maital Neta, Ingrid J. Haas, 2019-11-18 As the 66th volume in the prestigious Nebraska Series on Motivation this book focuses on understanding emotion and motivation as two factors that not only influence social and cognitive processes but also shape the way we navigate our social world Research on emotion has increased significantly over the past two decades pulling from scholarship in psychology neuroscience medicine political science sociology and even computer science This volume is informed by the growing momentum in the resulting interdisciplinary field of affective science and examines the role of emotion and motivation in our perceptions decision making and social interactions and attempts to understand the neurobiological mechanisms that support these processes across the lifespan in both healthy and clinical populations Included among the chapters Emotion concept development from childhood to adulthood Evolving psychological and neural models for the regulation of emotion Pathways to motivational impairments in psychopathology A valuation systems perspective on motivation Reproducible generalizable brain models of affective processes Emotion in the Mind and Body is a comprehensive and compelling rendering of the current state of the interdisciplinary field of affective science and will be of interest to researchers and students working in psychology and neuroscience as well as medicine political science and sociology

Motivation Eva Dreikurs Ferguson, Beth Eva Ferguson Wee, 2000 Motivation A Biosocial and Cognitive Integration of Motivation and Emotion shows how motivation relates to biological social and cognitive issues A wide range of topics concerning motivation and emotion are considered including hunger and thirst circadian and other biological rhythms fear and anxiety anger and aggression achievement attachment and love Goals and incentives are discussed in their application to work child rearing and personality This book reviews an unusual breadth of research and provides the reader with the scientific basis for understanding motivation as a major variable in human and animal life It also offers insights that can be applied to immediate and practical problems Various areas are examined in depth such as the relationships between reward incentives and motivation The discussion of biological rhythms shows that humans and animals are more alert at certain times than others and these rhythms also affect performance The topics in the book span the ways in which motivation connects with many aspects of contemporary psychology Basic issues of design and methodology details of research procedures and important aspects of definition and measurement are discussed throughout the book Motivation A Biosocial and Cognitive Integration of Motivation and Emotion examines the way motivation functions and how it interacts with other important variables physiological processes learning attention and memory rewards and stressors the role of culture as well as species characteristics The presentation makes clear in what important ways motivation as a construct contributes to the scientific understanding of behavior The book offers advanced undergraduate and graduate students a broad overview of motivation It also is of value for the professional psychologist who seeks an integrated overview of the classical and contemporary literature in the field of motivation The book provides information on a broad range of issues and thus can be used also as supplementary reading for courses on cognition and biological as well as social psychology

Human Motivation and Emotion Ross Buck, 1976 This revision of the successful text draws on the latest research in all areas of the field including biology and biochemistry neurology psychology and sociology Presenting the concepts of motivation and emotion as related aspects of the same general phenomena it examines the basic biological and physiological systems underlying motivational and emotional responses emphasizing how these interact with cognitive and other higher order processes This background is applied to a series of specific types of motives and behavior patterns such as aggression sexuality emotional expression and competence Goes on to examine the interaction between cognitive and physiological factors leading to a discussion of the central theme of the book that increasingly complex social influences have in the course of human evolution liberated most human behavior from direct biological physiological control This thoroughly revised and updated edition includes coverage of studies on the human brain via radioactive elements a section on the facial feedback hypothesis and an expanded treatment of the implications of right versus left hemisphere research Also provides a critical review of psychosurgery and physiological control including a discussion of the CIA's involvement in this area an examination of the effect of erotic films on aggressive behavior and much more

Motivation, Emotion, and Cognition David Yun Dai, Robert J. Sternberg, 2004 The central argument of this book is that cognition is not the whole story in understanding intellectual functioning and development To account for inter individual intra individual and developmental variability in actual intellectual performance it is necessary to treat cognition emotion and motivation as inextricably related

Motivation Lambert Deckers, 2018-01-29 This textbook provides a complete overview of motivation and emotion using an overarching organizational scheme of how biological psychological and environmental sources become motivation the inducement of behavior feelings and cognition It combines classic studies with current research and uses numerous real world examples to engage the student and make often difficult theoretical concepts come to life By understanding and applying the principles of motivation described in the text students will not only discover insights into what motivates their own behavior but also how to instigate self change Thoroughly revised and updated throughout this fifth edition provides a major review of recent research with over 225 new references including expansion in the areas of goal motivation and emotion psychology Other updated topics include new findings and interpretations on how evolution affects our preferences how personality traits determine motivation and how self control depends on a cost benefit analysis The addition of individual chapter glossaries and an increased number of links to additional resources supplement student learning This textbook is suitable as a primary text for courses on motivation For additional resources please consult the companion website at www.routledge.com/cw/deckers

Motivation and Emotion Philip Gorman, 2004-08-02 Motivation and Emotion provides an explanation of emotional experience and aspects of human behaviour using psychological physiological and alternative approaches The brain mechanisms that govern motivations are discussed and questions such as Why don't we eat ourselves to death and How do we know we are thirsty are answered Phil Gorman is an A Level teacher at Stafford College UK and a
