Human Rights, Suffering, and Aesthetics in Political Prison Literature Yenna Wu, Simona Livescu, 2011-06-16 This interdisciplinary volume of essays studies human rights in political prison literature while probing the intersections of suffering politics and aesthetics in an interliterary and intercultural context As the first book to explore the concept of global aesthetics in political prison narratives it demonstrates how literary insight enhances the study of human rights Covering varied geographical and geopolitical regions this collection encourages comparative analyses and cross cultural understanding Seeking to interrogate linguistic structural and cultural constructions of the political prison experience it highlights the literary aspects without losing sight of the political and the theoretical. The contributors cross various disciplinary boundaries and adopt different interpretive perspectives in analyzing prison narratives especially memoirs from such diverse countries as China, Egypt, Morocco, Syria, Romania, Russia, Uruguay, and the U.S. The volume emphasizes the literary works produced since the second half of the twentieth century, particularly since the political seismic shift in 1989. The authors treated range from the canonical to the less well known: Nawal El Saadawi, Varlam Shalamov, Zhang Xianliang, Cong Weixi, Wumingshi, Carlos Liscano, Fatna El Bouih, Nabil Sulayman, Faraj Bayraqdar, Hasiba Abdalrahman, Tahar Ben Jelloun, Nicolae Steinhardt, Irina Ratushinskaya, etc. Critical issues investigated include how the writers represent their sufferings, experiences, and emotions during incarceration; their strategies of survival; and how political prison literature can reveal hidden violations of human rights while resisting official discourse and serving other functions in society. Examining the commonalities and differences in global experiences of imprisonment, the eight chapters engage with the aesthetics of self-making and resistance, individual and collective memory, denial and conversion, catharsis and redemption, and the experiencing and witnessing of trauma. Topics also include the politics of remembering and the politics of representation, such as the problematic relationship between narrative language and representations of torture. Similarly under discussion are prison aesthetics of happiness, the role of spectacle in the criminal justice system, and the intersection of prison, gender, and silences. At a juncture when more and more people all over the world actively defy repressive regimes and demand political reform, this book makes a timely contribution to the advocacy and discourse of universal human rights.

Torture and Democracy Darius Rejali, 2009-06-08. This is the most comprehensive and most comprehensively chilling study of modern torture yet written. Darius Rejali, one of the world's leading experts on torture, takes the reader from the late nineteenth century to the aftermath of Abu Ghraib, from slavery and the electric chair to electrocution in American inner cities and from French and British colonial prison cells and the Spanish American War to the fields of Vietnam, the wars of the Middle East, and the new democracies of Latin America and Europe. As Rejali traces the development and application of one torture technique after another in these settings, he reaches startling conclusions. As the twentieth century progressed, he argues, democracies not only tortured but set the international pace for torture. Dictatorships may have tortured more and more indiscriminately, but the United States, Britain, and France pioneered and exported techniques that have become the lingua franca of modern torture methods that leave no marks. Under the watchful eyes of reporters and human rights activists, low-level authorities in the world's oldest democracies were the first to learn that to scar a victim was to advertise iniquity and invite scandal. Long before the CIA even existed, police and soldiers turned instead to clean techniques such as torture by electricity, ice water, noise, drugs, and stress positions. As democracy and human rights spread after World War II, so too did these methods. Rejali makes this troubling case in fluid, arresting prose, and on the basis of unprecedented research conducted in multiple languages and on several continents, begun years before most of us had ever heard of Osama bin Laden.

or Abu Ghraib The author of a major study of Iranian torture Rejali also tackles the controversial question of whether torture really works answering the new apologists for torture point by point A brave and disturbing book this is the benchmark against which all future studies of modern torture will be measured Why Not Torture Terrorists? Yuval Ginbar, 2008-03-27 The book addresses a dilemma at the heart of the War on Terror is it ever justifiable to torture terrorists in order to save the lives of innocent civilians the so called ticking bomb scenario The book first analyzes the ticking bomb dilemma as a pure moral one facing the individual would be torturer A never say never utilitarian position is pitted against a minimal absolutist view that some acts are never justifiable and that torture is one such act It then looks at the issues that arise once a state has decided to sanction torture in extreme situations when how and whom to torture the institutionalization of torture its effects on society and its efficacy in combatting terrorism in the shorter and longer runs Four models of legalized torture are next examined including current ones in Israel and the USA and the idea of torture warrants Finally related legal issues are analyzed among them the lawfulness of coercive interrogation under international law and attempts to allow torture only after the fact for instance by applying the criminal law defence of necessity A minimal absolutist view under which torture whether by private individuals or by state officials must be prohibited absolutely in law policy and practice and allowing no exceptions for ticking bomb situations is defended throughout
