Moliterno, 2020-12-08 Italian cinema is now regarded as one of the great cinemas of the world Historically however its fortunes have varied Following a brief moment of glory in the early silent era Italian cinema appeared to descend almost into irrelevance in the early 1920s A strong revival of the industry which gathered pace during the 1930s was abruptly truncated by the advent of World War II The end of the war however initiated a renewal as films such as Roma città aperta Rome Open City Sciusci Shoeshine 1946 and Ladri di biciclette Bicycle Thieves 1948 flagbearers of what soon came to be known as Neorealism attracted unprecedented international acclaim and a reputation that only continued to grow in the following years as Italian films were feted worldwide Ironically they were celebrated nowhere more than in the United States where Italian films consistently garnered the lion's share of the Oscars with Lina Wertmüller becoming the first woman to ever be nominated for the Best Director award This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Italian Cinema contains a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 400 cross referenced entries on major movements directors actors actresses film genres producers industry organizations and key films This book is an excellent resource for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about Italian Cinema A Companion to Italian Cinema chronologically the volume begins by introducing readers to De Sica's early popularity as an actor and singer during the years of Italian Fascism and to his initial directorial efforts before the end of World War II. It was not until the postwar era, however, that De Sica made his mark in film history. Special attention is given to this critical phase of his career which encompasses the neorealist films that made him famous: Shoeshine, Bicycle Thieves, Miracle in Milan, and Umberto D. When the neorealist movement waned after 1955, De Sica returned to his roots in Neapolitan comedy for a series of commercially successful films starring Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni. Memorable works from this period include Two Women and Marriage Italian Style, as well as Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow, which won De Sica an Academy Award in 1965. In one of his final films, The Garden of the Finzi Continis, he returned to the subject of World War II and to the human tragedy characteristic of his best neorealist productions. This fine anthology offers a comprehensive critical survey that covers the entire scope of De Sica's career and is an excellent resource for students, critics, and film enthusiasts. Vittorio De Sica Bert Cardullo, 2009. Recognized as a master of Italian and world cinema, Vittorio De Sica is considered one of the major proponents of neorealism, an Italian movement that forever altered the content and style of the cinema worldwide. This work covers De Sica's entire career as a stage and screen actor, director, and screenwriter. Vittorio De Sica: Actor, Director, Auteur begins with a chronology of this great artist's life and work. A lengthy essay then discusses his biographical and career information in detail, with special attention given to the years following the war when De Sica directed Shoeshine, Bicycle Thieves, Miracle in Milan, and Umberto D, the films that made him famous. Succeeding sections offer stage acting credits, screen acting credits, a filmography of De Sica's directorial work, selected credits related to De Sica's neorealist films, and a filmography of De Sica's work as a screenwriter, as well as a series of still images from his cinematic oeuvre. Two interviews with the master and a statement by De Sica himself provide additional insights. A bibliography of works by and about De Sica in the English language concludes the book, followed by a comprehensive index. Focus On: 100 Most Popular Vaudeville Performers Wikipedia contributors, Focus On: 100 Most Popular English Male Comedians Wikipedia contributors, Showman of the Screen A. T. McKenna, 2016-11-01. Short, immaculately dressed and shockingly foul-mouthed, Joseph E. Levine (1905-1987) was larger than life. He rose from poverty in Boston's West End to become one of postwar Hollywood's most prolific independent promoters, distributors, and producers. Alternately respected and reviled, this master of movie promotion was responsible for bringing films as varied as Godzilla, King of the Monsters (1956), Hercules (1958), The Graduate (1967), The Lion in Winter (1968), and A Bridge Too Far (1977) to American audiences. In the first biography of this controversial pioneer, A. T. McKenna traces Levine's rise as an influential packager of popular culture. He explores the mogul's pivotal role in many significant industry innovations from the 1950s to the 1970s, examining his use of saturation release tactics and bombastic advertising campaigns. Levine was also a trailblazer in promoting European art house cinema in the 1960s. He made Federico Fellini's 8 1/2 (1963) a hit in America, feuded with Jean-Luc Godard over their production of Contempt (1963), and campaigned aggressively for Sophia Loren to become the first actress to win an Oscar for a foreign language performance for her role in Two Women 1960 Despite his significant accomplishments and prominent role in shaping film distribution and promotion in the post studio era Levine is largely overlooked today McKenna's in depth biography corrects misunderstandings and misinformation about this colorful figure and offers a sober assessment of his contributions to world cinema It also illuminates Levine's peculiar talent for movie and self promotion as well as his extraordinary career in the motion picture business

Cinema, Gender, and Everyday Space Natalie Fullwood, 2015-03-05 Commedia all italiana or Comedy Italian style became popular at a time of great social change This book utilizing comedies produced in Italy from 1958-70 examines the genre's representation of gender in the everyday spaces of beaches and nightclubs offices cars and kitchens through the exploration of key spatial motifs
