Writing The Nation A Global Perspective:

Writing the Nation Stefan Berger, 2007-07-12 This book brings together experts on national history writing from all five continents to discuss the role of history in the making of national identities in a transnational and comparative way The institutionalization and professionalisation of history writing is analysed in the context of history's increasing nationalization

Narrating the Nation Stefan Berger, Linas Eriksonas, Andrew Mycock, 2008 A sustained and systematic study of the construction erosion and reconstruction of national histories across a wide variety of states is highly topical and extremely relevant in the context of the accelerating processes of Europeanization and globalization However as demonstrated in this volume histories have not of course only been written by professional historians Drawing on studies from a number of different European nation states the contributors to this volume present a systematic exploration of the representation of the national paradigm In doing so they contextualize the European experience in a more global framework by providing comparative perspectives on the national histories in the Far East and North America As such they expose the complex variables and diverse actors that lie behind the narration of a nation Global Perspectives on Global History Dominic Sachsenmaier, 2011-08-04

In recent years historians across the world have become increasingly interested in transnational and global approaches to the past However the debates surrounding this new border crossing movement have remained limited in scope as theoretical exchanges on the tasks responsibilities and potentials of global history have been largely confined to national or regional academic communities In this groundbreaking book Dominic Sachsenmaier sets out to redress this imbalance by offering a series of new perspectives on the global and local flows sociologies of knowledge and hierarchies that are an intrinsic part of historical practice Taking the United States Germany and China as his main case studies he reflects upon the character of different approaches to global history as well as their social political and cultural contexts He argues that this new global trend in historiography needs to be supported by a corresponding increase in transnational dialogue cooperation and exchange The Bonn Handbook of Globality Ludger Kühnhardt, Tilman Mayer, 2019-02-26

This two volume handbook provides readers with a comprehensive interpretation of globality through the multifaceted prism of the humanities and social sciences Key concepts and symbolizations rooted in and shaped by European academic traditions are discussed and reinterpreted under the conditions of the global turn Highlighting consistent anthropological features and socio cultural realities the handbook gathers coherently structured articles written by 110 professors in the humanities and social sciences at Bonn University Germany who initiate a global dialogue on meaningful and sustainable notions of human life in the age of globality Volume 1 introduces readers to various interpretations of globality and discusses notions of human development communication and aesthetics Volume 2 covers notions of technical meaning of political and moral order and reflections on the shaping of globality Race, nation and empire Catherine Hall, Keith McClelland, 2024-06-04 The essays in this collection show how histories written in the past in different political times dealt with considered or avoided and disavowed Britain's imperial role and issues of difference. Ranging from enlightenment historians to the present, these essays consider both individual historians including such key figures as E. A. Freeman, G. M. Trevelyan, and Keith Hancock, and also broader themes such as the relationship between liberalism, race, and historiography, and how we might re-think British history in the light of trans-national, trans-imperial, and cross-cultural analysis. Britishness and what British history is have become major cultural and political issues in our time. But as these essays demonstrate, there is no single national story; race, empire, and difference have pulsed through the writing of British history. The contributors include some of the most distinguished historians writing today: C. A. Bayly, Antoinette Burton, Saul Dubow, Geoff Eley, Theodore Koditschek, Marilyn Lake, John M. MacKenzie, Karen O'Brien, Sonya O. Rose, Bill Schwarz, Kathleen Wilson.

Interrogating Nation-Statehood and the Citizen in Curriculum Development Nicole Gotling, 2024-12-26. This book dives into the histories of nation-state building and curriculum formation to explore the ways that they intertwine, form, and inform each other. This book follows the understanding that nation-states have and still do develop their educational institutions, curricula, and teaching materials with specific goals and with a specific idea of the ideal student and citizen they want to create in mind. In particular, it advocates that analyzing multiple idiosyncratic cases can inform the connection between what we learn, how we learn it, and who we become as citizens, and further that this is related not to linear or global phenomena but to particular nation-states, curricula, and time periods. This book focuses on the comparison between four cases during the time of the large map-changing events and period of the Prussian Wars, 1864-1871, to make the intertwined relationships between nation-states and their curricula designed to create future loyal citizens more apparent. It makes a point of reconstructing each of the nation-states' historical, national, political, and educational processes, and then the reconstructed trajectories are compared both in their own trajectories over time throughout the 19th century and up until World War II, and in relation to other nation-states' trajectories over the same long timespan. Exploring a new pathway into research on the intersection of education, curriculum, and nationalism, and providing a new, extensively researched and formed methodological framework, it will appeal to researchers, academics, and postgraduates with interests in comparative and international education, curriculum studies, the history of education, nationalism, state building, and textbook analysis.

Modernity in Islamic Tradition Florian Zemmin, 2018-07-23. What does it mean to be modern? This study regards the concept of society as foundational to modern self-understanding. Identifying Arabic conceptualizations of society in the journal al-Manar, the mouthpiece of Islamic reformism, the author shows how modernity was articulated from within an Islamic discursive tradition. The fact that the classical term umma was a principal term used to conceptualize modern society suggests the convergence of discursive traditions in modernity, rather than a mere diffusion of European concepts.

Seizing the Square Daniel Palm, 2020-10-12. This book discusses global dynamics behind the synchronous outburst of protests in China and Germany in 1989, and the local acts of dissent on the squares comparatively. It breaks with the national timelines protests in 1989 have so far been identified with and offers insights into the spatial manifestation of the global moment of 1989 Concluding on the importance of the SpaceTime on the seized squares in 1989 it also discusses more recent protests forming on city squares Offering a global perspective on a phenomenon that itself became global in the last decades the book provides a view on globalization processes operating from below that puts the occupied space on city squares at the heart of interest Performing the Past Karin Tilmans, Frank van Vree, J. M. Winter, 2010 Karin Tilmans is an historian and academic coordinator of the Max Weber Programme at the European University Institute Florence Frank van Vree is an historian and professor of journalism at the University of Amsterdam Jay M Winter is the Charles J Stille Professor of History at Yale

The Oxford Handbook of the History of Nationalism John Breuilly, 2013-03-07 The Oxford Handbook of the History of Nationalism comprises thirty six essays by an international team of leading scholars providing a global coverage of the history of nationalism in its different aspects ideas sentiments and politics Every chapter takes the form of an interpretative essay which by a combination of thematic focus comparison and regional perspective enables the reader to understand nationalism as a distinct and global historical subject The book covers the emergence of nationalist ideas sentiments and cultural movements before the formation of a world of nation states as well as nationalist politics before and after the era of the nation state with chapters covering Europe the Middle East North East Asia South Asia Southeast Asia sub Saharan Africa and the Americas Essays on everyday national sentiment and race ideas in fascism are accompanied by chapters on nationalist movements opposed to existing nation states nationalism and international relations and the role of external intervention into nationalist disputes within states In addition the book looks at the major challenges to nationalism international socialism religion pan nationalism and globalization before a final section considering how historians have approached the subject of nationalism Taken separately the chapters in this Handbook will deepen understanding of nationalism in particular times and places taken together they will enable the reader to see nationalism as a distinct subject in modern world history
