narratives ethnographic texts and biology to explore the limits of the human body and of the human world This book provides an in depth examination of the role of monstrosity in ancient Greek literature In the past monsters in this context have largely been treated as unimportant or analysed on an individual basis By focusing on genres rather than single creatures the book provides a greater understanding of how monstrosity and abnormal bodies are used in ancient sources Very often ideas about monstrosity are used as a contrast against which to examine the nature of what it is to be human both physically and behaviourally This book focuses on creation narratives ethnographic writing and biological texts These three genres address the origins of the human world its spatial limits and the nature of the human body by examining monstrosity in these genres we can see the ways in which Greek texts construct the space and time in which people exist and the nature of our bodies This book is aimed primarily at scholars and students undertaking research not only those with an interest in monstrosity but also scholars exploring cultural representations of time especially the primordial and mythological past ancient geography and ethnography and ancient philosophy and science As the representation of monsters in antiquity was strongly influential on medieval renaissance and early modern images and texts this book will also be relevant to people researching these areas
