Ganz, 2007-07-28 cancer survivors have increased in number more than threefold over the last 30 years to the current level of 10 million and growing Among patients diagnosed today nearly two thirds are expected to survive 5 or more years This success may be attributed to the expertise of physicians and nurses from multiple disciplines who precisely execute a complex plan based in clinical research Yet after a period of orchestrated and frequent interaction with healthcare professionals bolstered by the attention and encouragement of family and friends the cancer patient may view the end of treatment with anxiety and concern And what exactly is the plan Just as healthcare providers are expected to keep up to date with the latest in treatment and prevention they must now coordinate and provide comprehensive survivor care This significant text organized and edited by Patricia A Ganz and involving the contributions of over 40 distinguished authors provides a greatly needed resource for survivor care today and tomorrow The current attention on cancer survivorship represents a convergence of burgeoning survivor numbers a corpus of data on late treatment effects in children and adults and increased public and professional awareness Dr Ganz and many of the contributors to this comprehensive text pioneered cancer survivorship and they must justifiably be proud that their advocacy and commitment to survivor care and research have resulted in in depth reports by the President's Cancer Panel several Institute of Medicine studies and this timely text

Health Services for Cancer Survivors Michael Feuerstein, Patricia A. Ganz, 2011-06-15 Health has been conceptualized by world and national health organizations WHO CDC Healthy People 2010 as more than the absence of disease It involves a focus on physical psychosocial and functional aspects of life as well as the prevention of future illnesses At this point in the development of quality health care for cancer survivors there is sufficient knowledge and expert opinion to push efforts forward to improve the health of cancer survivors Clearly there is more research in the most prevalent forms of cancers e g breast cancer than others that provide us with guidance on how to optimize their health but there are data on other forms of cancers that can also better inform practice There may also be general care practices that can cut across cancer types There has been an emergence of epidemiological and clinical research in cancer survivors that can form the basis for a revolution in the quality and nature of health care that survivors receive This book not only provides the reader with diverse perspectives and data but also integrates this information so it can serve as the foundation necessary to improve and maintain the health of cancer survivors Reporting of symptoms to health care providers is a complex multi determined problem influenced not only by the pathophysiology but also as we have learned over the years through pain research by societal cultural and biobehavioral factors This book will consider this important aspect of follow up for millions of cancer survivors because of the strong reliance on symptom reporting for clinical decision making In order for us to generate meaningful and effective treatment we need to better understand the symptom experience in cancer survivors This book provides much information that will assist us to better understand and manage this complicated end point The presenting problems need to be articulated and conceptualized as clearly as possible by both parties so appropriate actions can be taken Since health care costs are a major concern for patients payers and providers this area will also be addressed in all the relevant sections In taking an interdisciplinary perspective this book illustrates the importance of a team approach to the improvement of health care and associated health well being and functioning in cancer survivors The 17 chapters cover critical topics of which physicians and providers of all types must be aware in order to provide the most comprehensive and responsive care for cancer survivors All of the clinical care chapters include case studies to illustrate the real world application of these approaches in cancer survivors Information about sources of referral both within and outside the traditional health care communities will be provided in tabular form There is no other text that provides both an overview of the problems and their challenges case illustrations of direct application and the reality of reimbursement for such care The editors hope that there may be no need for the clinician or the survivor to adapt to a new normal if the presenting problems are understood and handled from an interdisciplinary perspective as outlined here
