

WEAPONIZING ANTHROPOLOGY

DAVID H. PRICE

When we think of the word "weapon," we think of guns, knives, and bombs. But what if we think of the word "anthropology" as a weapon? In this book, David H. Price argues that anthropology has been weaponized by the military and the state, and that it has been used to justify war and violence. He shows how anthropology has been used to create a sense of "otherness" and "threat" that has led to the dehumanization of people and the justification of war. Price argues that anthropology has been used to create a sense of "otherness" and "threat" that has led to the dehumanization of people and the justification of war.

Weaponizing Anthropology Social Science In Service Of The Militarized State Counterpunch:

Weaponizing Anthropology David H. Price, 2011-08-16 The ongoing battle for hearts and minds in Iraq and Afghanistan is a military strategy inspired originally by efforts at domestic social control and counterinsurgency in the United States. Weaponizing Anthropology documents how anthropological knowledge and ethnographic methods are harnessed by military and intelligence agencies in post 9/11 America to placate hostile foreign populations. David H. Price outlines the ethical implications of appropriating this traditional academic discourse for use by embedded militarized research teams. Price's inquiry into past relationships between anthropologists and the CIA, FBI, and Pentagon provides the historical base for this expose of the current abuses of anthropology by military and intelligence agencies. Weaponizing Anthropology explores the ways that recent shifts in funding sources for university students threaten academic freedom as new secretive CIA-linked fellowship programs rapidly infiltrate American university campuses. Price examines the specific uses of anthropological knowledge in military doctrine that have appeared in a new generation of counterinsurgency manuals and paramilitary social science units like the Human Terrain Teams. David H. Price is the author of Threatening Anthropology: McCarthyism and the FBI's Surveillance of Activist Anthropologists and Anthropological Intelligence: The Deployment and Neglect of American Anthropology in the Second World War. He is a member of the Network of Concerned Anthropologists and teaches at St. Martin's College in Lacey, Washington.

Weaponizing Maps Joe Bryan, Denis Wood, 2015-03-11 Maps play an indispensable role in indigenous peoples' efforts to secure land rights in the Americas and beyond. Yet indigenous peoples did not invent participatory mapping techniques on their own; they appropriated them from techniques developed for colonial rule and counterinsurgency campaigns and refined by anthropologists and geographers. Through a series of historical and contemporary examples from Nicaragua, Canada, and Mexico, this book explores the tension between military applications of participatory mapping and its use for political mobilization and advocacy. The authors analyze the emergence of indigenous territories as spaces defined by a collective way of life and as a particular kind of battleground.

Military Anthropology Montgomery McFate, 2018-05-01 A candid reassessment of the role of anthropologists in mediating encounters between Western armies and non-Western peoples.

Between Matter and Method Gretchen Bakke, Marina Peterson, 2020-12-01 Building on the lively exchange between anthropology and art that has emerged in recent years, Between Matter and Method makes a bold and creative contribution to this rapidly growing field. Taking an expansive approach to the arts, it finds commonalities in approaches that engage with visual artifacts, sound, performance, improvisation, literature, dance, theater, and design. The book questions current disciplinary boundaries and offers a new model grounded in a shared methodology for interdisciplinary encounter between art and anthropology. Gretchen Bakke and Marina Peterson have gathered together anthropologists whose work is notable for engaging the arts and creative practice in conceptually rigorous and methodologically innovative ways, including Kathleen Stewart, Keith Murphy, Natasha Myers, Stuart McLean, Craig Campbell, and Roger Sansi Essays span the globe from Indonesia West Virginia and Los Angeles in the United States to the Orkney Islands in the UK and Russia and Spain Food and Feast in Modern Outlaw Tales Alexander L. Kaufman, Penny

Changes at the global federal state and municipal level are pushing forward the reparations movement for people of African descent. The distinguished editors of this volume have gathered works that chronicle the historical movement for reparations both in the United States and around the world. Sharing a focus on reparations as an issue of justice, the contributors provide a historical primer of the movement, introduce the philosophical, political, economic, legal, and ethical issues surrounding reparations, explain why government corporations, universities, and other institutions must take steps to rehabilitate, compensate, and commemorate African Americans, call for the restoration of Black people's human and civil rights and material and psychological well-being, lay out specific ideas about how reparations can and should be paid, and advance cutting-edge interpretations of the complex, long-lasting effects that enslavement, police and vigilante actions, economic discrimination, and other behaviors have had on people of African descent. Groundbreaking and innovative, Reparations and Reparatory Justice offers a multifaceted resource to anyone wishing to explore a defining moral issue of our time.
