They Wanted Lincoln Dead:

They Wanted Lincoln Dead Troy Cowan, 2017-04-19 Edwin Stanton and Andrew Johnson planned Lincoln's assassination. One failed and the other was successful. They Wanted Lincoln Dead Cowan Troy (author), 1901 What Really Happened: The Lincoln Assassination Robert J. Hutchinson, 2020-04-07 Think You Know Everything about the Lincoln Assassination Think Again After 150 years many unsolved mysteries and enduring urban legends still surround the assassination of Abraham Lincoln by the popular stage actor John Wilkes Booth. In a new look at the case award winning history author Robert J. Hutchinson The Politically Incorrect Guide to the Bible explores what we know and don't know about what really happened at Ford's Theatre on the night of April 14, 1865. In addition, he argues that the deep-seated political hatreds that roiled Washington, D.C. in the final weeks of the Civil War are particularly relevant to our own polarized age. Among the tantalizing questions Hutchinson explores are: Did the Confederacy have a hand in the assassination plot? Who were Booth's secret accomplices and why did he change the plan from kidnapping to assassination? Why was it so easy for Booth to walk into the president's box to shoot him? Where were the guards? How did Booth evade the largest manhunt in U.S. history for nearly two weeks despite being unable to walk? Who gave the order to shoot Booth in the Garrett barn and what happened to his body? Drawing upon both primary sources and the best recent historical research What Really Happened: The Lincoln Assassination separates established facts from mere conjectures and is the one book to own if you want to know what really happened.

Lincoln's Assassin J. F. Pennington, 2014-07-09 In 1890 actor John Wilkes Booth long presumed dead emerged from twenty-five years of anonymity in his wilderness refuge to expose those truly responsible for the Lincoln assassination and its ensuing cover-up. To unite with the children he had never known and recover what he might of his sense of purpose and dignity. After shooting President Abraham Lincoln, Booth fled into the night and government reports claimed he was killed twelve days later. But the man who was shot in the head and burned in a tobacco shed fire before being covertly transported to Washington was never fully identified. Friends as well as members of America's premier family of the theater of which he was a member were barred from even viewing the body; the only photograph taken of the corpse was never printed and then lost; and a strangely ceremonious martial court presided over a secret burial. Rumor immediately began to circulate: Booth was still alive. In Lincoln's Assassin Jeffrey Pennington presents Booth's own story of flight and return, detailing how another was shot in his place as he escaped to nominal freedom and obscurity, leaving behind all his personal belongings and the stage life he once knew. The larger conspiracy in which he was embroiled is unpicked in stylish fashion, exploring the political landscape in which Lincoln lived and died. Written in a confessional style, it aims to offer an insight into the true motivations at the heart of the Lincoln assassination, an event that continues to be the subject of much theorizing and interest.

Vulich,2015-01-12 Have you ever wanted to know more about history but don t have time for the long version This book brings you a short account of the Lincoln Assassination In less than 60 minutes you will meet the key players learn the pertinent facts of Booth s plot and discover the fate of the individual conspirators Lincoln s bodyguard that night was John Parker an undistinguished Washington D C policeman Parker was supposed to be stationed in the little passageway outside of the entrance to the Presidential Box guarding Lincoln Apparently Parker abandoned his post several times during the performance once to watch the play from the first gallery and after the intermission he disappeared altogether with Lincoln's footman and coachman to visit a nearby tavern. As a result the Presidential Box was left unattended when Booth arrived. Booth crept in through the unguarded door. After entering the passageway to the Presidential Box he grabbed the block of wood Spangler left there for him and barred the doorway shut. From there he moved down the passageway coming upon the two doors to the box. Lincoln was in. At 10:20 PM Booth peeked in through the door with his Derringer raised and leveled. He fired a ball into the back of President Lincoln's head. Lincoln slumped forward motionless. Inside the box it was clouded with white smoke from the powder and shot. Mary Lincoln let out a screech when she realized what happened. Major Henry A. Rathbone jumped to his feet and began struggling with Booth. Booth lashed out at him with his dagger. He thrust at Rathbone's heart. Moving quickly Rathbone parried the blow with his arm. The dagger dug several inches deep into his arm and tore into his chest. Booth broke free and attempted to escape. Meet the conspirators: 1 John Wilkes Booth, Distinguished actor, Southern sympathizer, avowed hater of Abraham Lincoln who first wanted to kidnap the President and then set his course on MURDER; 2 Dr Samuel Mudd who set Booth's broken leg and provided him with a place to stay on the night of the assassination. Some say he was innocent and had no idea who Booth was. Others say he was in on the plot; 3 John Surratt, the only conspirator to go free because he was out of the area on a mission for the Confederate Government when Lincoln was killed; 4 Mary Surratt, mother of John Surratt. The conspirators often met at her boarding house in Washington and her Tavern in Surrattsville just south of Washington City. For her part in the assassination she became the first female executed by the Federal Government; 5 Lewis Thornton Powell, the man who bungled his assassination attempt on William H. Seward, Secretary of State; 6 George A. Atzerodt. His part in the conspiracy was to kill Vice President Andrew Johnston. He chickened out at the last minute and wandered around the streets of Washington City drunk that night.

Getting Right with Lincoln Edward Steers Jr., 2021-04-13. Did Abraham Lincoln hate his father so much that he would not visit him on his deathbed or buy him a tombstone? Is it true that Ann Rutledge who died tragically young was the real love of his life? Did he order the murder of thirty-eight Dakota Sioux warriors because of his hatred of Native Americans? Noted historian and Lincoln expert Edward Steers Jr. sets the record straight in this engaging and authoritative book analyzing the facts and clarifying some of the most prominent misconceptions about the sixteenth president's life. He investigates claims that have found a foothold in mainstream lore ranging from the contention that Lincoln had a troubled and perhaps scandalous early adulthood in Springfield to more serious attacks on his character such as the accusation that he was reluctant to emancipate enslaved people and held racist beliefs. Drawing on his background in health science Steers also examines allegations that Lincoln suffered numerous illnesses from endocrine disorders to syphilis Much of the recent revisionist history about Abraham Lincoln relies on selective sources that provide a false image of the man His law partner of twenty one years close friend and early biographer William Herndon described Lincoln as the most shut mouthed man he ever knew and yet volumes have been written on Lincoln s musings beliefs and private thoughts in general His life and deeds have been heavily researched interpreted and reinterpreted time and again until the interpretations themselves have become untrustworthy In this book Steers relies on primary textual evidence to address each legend at the source and maintains caution when reviewing the potentially biased reminiscences of historic figures close to the president The result is a fascinating forensic exploration of some of the persistent hoaxes and myths related to America s most revered president
