This Blinding Absence Of Light:

This Blinding Absence of Light Tahar Ben Jelloun, 2002 The award winning Moroccan born author of The Sacred Night and Corruption provides a chilling fictional account of the horrific desert concentration camps in which King Hassan II of Morocco held his political enemies and the inhumane conditions in which survivors lived This Blinding Absence of Light Tahar Ben Jelloun, 2006-01-31 An immediate and critically acclaimed bestseller in France This Blinding Absence of Light is the latest work by internationally renowned author Tahar Ben Jelloun the first North African winner of the Prix Goncourt and winner of the Prix Mahgreb Crafting real life events into narrative fiction Ben Jelloun reveals the horrific story of the desert concentration camps in which King Hassan II of Morocco held his political enemies in underground cells with no light and only enough food and water to keep them lingering on the edge of death Working closely with one of the survivors Ben Jelloun narrates the story in the simplest of language and delivers a shocking novel that explores both the limitlessness of inhumanity and the impossible endurance of the human will Publisher description Expressions of the Body Charlotte Baker, 2009 This book contributes to a growing corpus of writing on the body bringing new perspectives to this fascinating and topical subject Feminist psychoanalytic and queer readings among others have demonstrated the extent of the functions and roles fulfilled by the body as well as the number of critical perspectives it can serve However by and large African representations of the body have been overlooked This coherent volume brings together essays on the portrayal of the body in African art film literature photography and theatre The book includes thematically linked contributions which explore issues of power and representation and reflects current trends in the study of the body and more broadly within the field of African Studies A Cruel Theatre of Self-Immolations Grzegorz Ziolkowski, 2020-02-13 A Cruel Theatre of Self Immolations investigates contemporary protest self burnings and their echoes across culture The book provides a conceptual frame for the phenomenon and an annotated comprehensive timeline of suicide protests by fire supplemented with notes on artworks inspired by or devoted to individual cases The core of the publication consists of six case studies of these ultimate acts augmented with analyses and interpretations hailing from the visual arts film theatre architecture and literature By examining responses to these events within an interdisciplinary frame Ziolkowski highlights the phenomenon's global reach and creates a broad yet in depth exploration of the problems that most often prompt these self burnings such as religious discrimination and harassment war and its horrors the brutality and indoctrination of authoritarian regimes and the apathy they produce as well as the exploitation of the so called subalterns and their exclusion from mainstream economic systems Of interest to scholars from an array of fields from theatre and performance to visual art to religion and politics A Cruel Theatre of Self Immolations offers a unique look at voluntary demonstrative and radical performances of shock and subversion

The Last Friend Tahar Ben Jelloun, 2007-01-30 Renowned for his compelling humane portraits of everyday Arab lives Tahar Ben Jelloun has affirmed his place in the literary world by winning such awards as the Prix Goncourt and Prix Maghreb

In The Last Friend Ben Jelloun presents a spellbinding coming of age story and a dazzling portrait of Morocco in an era of repression and disillusionment. In Tangiers in the late 1950s two teenagers Mamed and Ali strike up an intense friendship that will last a lifetime. But lurking just beneath the surface is a deep unspoken jealousy in danger of destroying them both.

Leaving Tangier Tahar Ben Jelloun, 2011-04-01 Tangier in the early 1990s Young Moroccans gather regularly in a seafront cafe to gaze at the lights on the Spanish coast glimmering in the distance. Facing a future with few prospects in a country they feel has failed them, their disillusionment is matched only by their desire to reach this paradise so close and yet so far. Not least because of the treacherous waters separating the two countries and the frightening stories they hear of the fates of would be illegal emigrants. A young man called Azel is intent upon leaving one way or another. At the brink of despair he meets Miguel, a wealthy Spanish gallery owner who promises to take him to Barcelona if Azel will become his lover. Seeing no other solution and although he has a girlfriend to whom he is promised, Azel agrees to Miguel's proposition and thus begins a different kind of hell for the young Moroccan. Shame and self disgust at his own helplessness gradually overcome him and he finds himself once more in a hopeless situation. Azel and others like him, including his sister, begin to wonder if the reality of life in Europe will live up to their dreams.

Writing Tangier in the Postcolonial Transition Michael K. Walonen, 2016-02-17 In his study of the Tangier expatriate community, Michael K. Walonen analyzes the representations of French and Spanish Colonial North Africa by Paul Bowles, Jane Bowles, William Burroughs, Brion Gysin, and Alfred Chester during the end of the colonial era and the earliest days of post independence. The conceptualizations of space in these authors' descriptions of Tangier, Walonen shows, share common components: an attention to the transformative potential of the conflict sweeping the region; a record of the power relations that divided space along lines of gender and ethnicity, including the spatial impact of the widespread sexual commerce between Westerners and natives; a vision of the Maghreb as a land that can be dominated or imposed on as a kind of frontier space; an expression of anxieties about the specters of Cold War antagonisms; and an embrace of the underlying logic of the market to the culture of the Maghreb. Counterbalancing the depictions of Tangier by Westerners who sought to reconcile their nostalgia for the colonial order with their support of native demands for independent governance is Walonen's extended analysis of the contrasting sense of place found in the writings of native Moroccan authors such as Mohammed Choukri, Tahar Ben Jelloun, and Anouar Majid. In its focus on Tangier and the larger Maghreb as a lived environment situated at a particular spatial and temporal crossroads, Walonen's study makes an important contribution to the fields of urban transatlantic and postcolonial studies.

The Punishment Tahar Ben Jelloun, 2020-04-21 An innocent man's gripping personal account of terrifying confinement by the Moroccan military during the reign of a formidable twentieth century despot In 1967 Tahar Ben Jelloun a peaceful young political protestor was one of nearly a hundred other hapless men taken into punitive custody by the Moroccan army It was a time of dangerous importance in Moroccan history and they were treated with a chilling brutality that not all of them survived This powerful portrait of the narrator's traumatic experience written with a memoirist's immediacy reveals both his helpless terror and his desperate hope to survive by drawing strength from his love of literature Shaken to the core by his disillusionment with a brutal regime unsure of surviving his ordeal he stole some paper and began secretly to write with the admittedly romantic idea of leaving some testament behind a veiled denunciation of the evils of his time His first poem was published after he was unexpectedly released and his vocation was born

The Camp Colman Hogan, Marta Marin-Dòmine, 2021-02-03 The camp is nothing if not diverse in kind scope and particularity in sociological and juridical configuration in texture iconography and political import Adjectives of camp specificity embrace a spectrum from extermination and concentration to detention migration deportation and refugee camps And while the geographic range covered by contributors is hardly global it is broad Chile Rwanda Canada the US Central Europe Morocco Algeria South Africa France and Spain And yet is to so characterize the camp to run the risk of diffusing what in origin is a concentration into a paratactical series of identity particularisms While The Camp does not seek to antithetically promulgate a universalist vision it does aim to explore the imbrication of the particular and the universal to analyze the structure of a camp or camps and to call attention the role of the listener in the construction of the testimony For by naming what cannot be said is not every narrative of internment and exclusion a potential site of agency articulating the inner splitting of language that Giorgio Agamben defines as the locus of testimony to bear witness is to place oneself in one's own language in the position of those who have lost it to establish oneself in a living language as if it were dead or in a dead language as if it were living Souffles-Anfas Olivia C.
