Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised exercise program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The intervention group (n = 20) participated in a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised exercise program, while the control group (n = 20) remained sedentary. The intervention group showed significant improvements in physical and psychological health compared to the control group. The results suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised exercise program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women.
