Tribal Gathering Eight Stories Set In 1960s Post Colonial West Africa:

The Up-Country Man Kenneth C. Ryeland, 2012-08-07 The Up Country Man is a true account of a young British engineer's arrival in Nigeria to take up his new job. In April 1967 the country is seven years into a volatile independence and Ken Ryeland struggles to come to terms with the culture shock and the endemic tribalism that pervades every level of society. On being transferred to Enugu capital of the troubled Eastern Region he is further challenged when the Regional Military Government rebels against the Federal Military Government in Lagos. An act of secession quickly follows and the short-lived Republic of Biafra is born. Almost immediately the new republic is plunged into a bloody and bitter war of survival with the Lagos Government and Ryeland finds himself trapped in the rebel enclave as Federal troops close in for the kill. The Last Bature Kenneth C Ryeland, 2016-08-09 The Last Bature is a policeman's story set in Nibana, an imaginary West African state shortly after gaining its independence from the British in 1962. What begins as a straightforward investigation by the last British policeman in the Northern Region and an African police inspector quickly turns to intrigue when the intelligence services of the superpowers vie with each other to secure a breakthrough in weapons technology. Combine this with the machinations of an irrational regional military governor hell-bent on overthrowing his brother the head of state and the basis for an exciting story emerges. With the cold war as a backdrop and a second coup imminent the action moves quickly from the heat of the Omdurman Hills through the stench of the Lagos slums to the waters of the Bight of Lagos giving the reader an insight into the grubby world of espionage and life in West Africa during the turbulent sixties. The Mine Kenneth C. Ryeland, 2012-09-17 The Mine is a political thriller set in Nibana, an imaginary West African state several years after gaining independence from the British in 1962. With the Eastern Region about to secede and Nibana heading for civil war the head of state invites an archaeology professor and his team to investigate some ruins in the Northern Region. The professor's astonishing finds initiate a chain of extraordinary events that lead to abduction. A police investigation ensues but becomes complicated when an Eastern Bloc country is commissioned to print currency for the secessionists and an MI6 agent working with the police must hinder the secession by sabotaging the currency. An abandoned mine becomes the focal point when the agent, police and archaeologists are incarcerated there and discover its secret. Murder, breathtaking corruption, river pirates and rogue army officers. Ken Ryeland manipulates these ingredients in his usual consummate way to provide an exciting political thriller. Time Well Spent Kenneth C Ryeland, 2016-03-30 Time Well Spent is a personal account of Ken Ryeland's training as a motor fitter in Birmingham where he served his apprenticeship with British Railways London Midland Region from 1957 to 1963. Leyland Rover Kenneth C. Ryeland, 2018-03-27 Leyland Rover is an account of Ken Ryeland's tours of the Far East as a service engineer for British Leyland during the early 1970s. After serving an engineering apprenticeship and several years working in Nigeria Ryeland and his family returned to the UK where he joined the Rover Company at Solihull. Later he transferred to Rover Triumph's overseas service department his job was to see that Leyland's Far East distributors conformed to all operational and engineering standards The culture and different working practices in the various countries presented many challenges for Ryeland but he managed to survive being held hostage by the military in Malaysia interrogated by police in Afghanistan hospitalised in Thailand and summoned to the palace by the king in Nepal Tribal Gathering
