Water Security The Water Food Energy Climate Nexus:

Water Security The World Economic Forum Water Initiative, 2012-02-24 The world is on the brink of the greatest crisis it has ever faced a spiraling lack of fresh water Groundwater is drying up even as water demands for food production for energy and for manufacturing are surging Water is already emerging as a headline geopolitical issue and worsening water security will soon have dire consequences in many parts of the global economic system Directed by UN Secretary General Ban Ki Moon at the 2008 Davos Annual Meeting the World Economic Forum assembled the world's foremost group of public private non governmental organization and academic experts to examine the water crisis issue from all perspectives The result of their work is this forecast a stark non technical overview of where we will be by 2025 if we take a business as usual approach to mis managing our water resources The findings are shocking Perhaps equally stunning are the potential solutions and the recommendations that the group presents All are included in this landmark publication Water Security contains compelling commentary from leading decision makers past and present The commentary is supported by analysis from leading academics of how the world economy will be affected if world leaders cannot agree on solutions The book suggests how business and politics need to manage the energy food water climate axis as leaders negotiate the details of the climate regime that replace Kyoto Protocols

Water Security Water Initiative The World Economic Forum, 2011-09-21 At the 2008 Davos Annual Meeting UN Secretary General Ban Ki Moon identified water as the climate adaptation issue directing the World Economic Forum to assemble the world's foremost group of public private non governmental organization and academic experts to examine the impending global water crisis from all perspectives The result of their work is this forecast a stark non technical overview of where we will be by 2025 if we continue to mis manage our water resources Water Security contains compelling commentary from leading decision makers past and present The commentary is supported by analysis from leading academics of how the world economy will be affected if world leaders cannot agree on solutions The findings are shocking Perhaps equally stunning are the potential solutions and the recommendations that the group presents All are included in this landmark publication

Water Security, 2011 The Water, Food, Energy and Climate Nexus Felix Dodds, Jamie Bartram, 2016-03-31 Global trends of population growth rising living standards and the rapidly increasing urbanized world are increasing the demand on water food and energy Added to this is the growing threat of climate change which will have huge impacts on water and food availability It is increasingly clear that there is no place in an interlinked world for isolated solutions aimed at just one sector In recent years the nexus has emerged as a powerful concept to capture these inter linkages of resources and is now a key feature of policy making This book is one of the first to provide a broad overview of both the science behind the nexus and the implications for policies and sustainable development It brings together contributions by leading intergovernmental and governmental officials industry scientists and other stakeholder thinkers who are working to develop the approaches to the Nexus of water food energy and climate It represents a major synthesis and state of the art assessment of the Nexus by major players in light of the adoption by the United Nations of the new Sustainable Development Goals and Targets in 2015 With a foreword by HRH the Prince of Wales
