

To My Grown-Up Children

My hands were busy through the day;
I didn't have much time to play
The little games you asked me to--
I didn't have much time for you.
I'd wash your clothes, I'd sew and cook;
But when you'd bring your picture book
And ask me please to share your fun,
I'd say: "A little later, Hun."

I'd tuck you in all safe at night,
And hear your prayers, turn out the light,
Then tip-toe softly to the door....
I wish I'd stayed a minute more.
A little child grows up so fast.
For life is short, the years rush past....

No longer are they at your side,
Their precious secrets to confide.
The picture books are put away;
There are no longer games to play.
No good-night kiss, no prayers to hear--
That all belongs to yesteryear.

My hands, once busy, now are still.
The days are long and hard to fill.
I wish I could go back and do
The little things you asked me to.

American Poetry after Modernism Albert Gelpi, 2015-03-09 Albert Gelpi's American Poetry after Modernism is a study of sixteen major American poets of the postwar period from Robert Lowell to Adrienne Rich. Gelpi argues that a distinctly American poetic tradition was solidified in the later half of the twentieth century thus severing it from British conventions. In Gelpi's view what distinguishes the American poetic tradition from the British is that at the heart of the American endeavor is a primary questioning of function and medium. The chief paradox in American poetry is the lack of a tradition that requires answering and redefining redefining what it means to be a poet and likewise how the words of a poem create meaning offer insight into reality and answer the ultimate questions of living. Through chapters devoted to specific poets Gelpi explores this paradox by providing an original and insightful reading of late twentieth century American poetry. The Child Welfare Manual, 1915 Contribution to Education, 1929
