The Triumph Of Vulgarly Rock Music In The Mirror Of Romanticism:

The Triumph of Vulgarly Robert Pattison, 1987-01-22 The Triumph of Vulgarly in a thinker's guide to rock n roll Rock music mirrors the tradition of nineteenth century Romanticism Robert Pattison says Whitman's barbaric yawp can still be heard in the punk rock of the Ramones and the spirit that inspired Poe's Eureka lives on in the lyrics of Talking Heads Rock is vulgar Pattison notes and vulgarity is something that high culture has long despised but rarely bothered to define This book is the first effort since John Ruskin and Aldous Huxley to describe in depth what vulgarity is and how with the help of ideas inherent in Romanticism it has slipped the constraints imposed on it by refined culture and established its own loud arts The book disassembles the various myths of rock its roots in black and folk music the primacy it accords to feeling and self the sexual omnipotence of rock stars the satanic predilections of rock fans and rock's high voltage image of the modern Prometheus wielding an electric guitar Pattison treats these myths as vulgar counterparts of their originals in refined Romantic art and offers a description and justification of rock's central place in the social and aesthetic structure of modern culture At a time when rock lyrics have provoked parental outrage and senatorial hearings The Triumph of Vulgarly is required reading for anyone interested in where rock comes from and how it works

Romanticism and Film Will Kitchen, 2020-11-26 The relationship between Romanticism and film remains one of the most neglected topics in film theory and history with analysis often focusing on the proto cinematic significance of Richard Wagner's music dramas One new and interesting way of examining this relationship is by looking beyond Wagner and developing a concept of audio visual explanation rooted in Romantic philosophical aesthetics and employing it in the analysis of film discourse and representation Using this concept of audio visual explanation the cultural image of the Hungarian pianist and composer Franz Liszt a contemporary of Wagner and another significant practitioner of Romantic audio visual aesthetics is examined in reference to specific case studies including the rarely explored films Song Without End 1960 and Lisztomania 1975 This multifaceted study of film discourse and representation employs Liszt as a guiding thread structuring a general exploration of the concept of Romanticism and its relationship with film more generally This exploration is supported by new theories of representation based on schematic cognition the philosophy of explanation and the recently developed film theory of Jacques Rancière Individual chapters address the historical background of audio visual explanation in Romantic philosophical aesthetics Liszt's role in the historical discourses of film and film music and various filmic representations of Liszt and his compositions Throughout these investigations Will Kitchen explores the various ways that films explain or make sense of things through a Romantic aesthetic combination of sound and vision
