The Uncertain Business Of Doing Good Outsiders In Africa:

The Uncertain Business of Doing Good Larry Krotz, 2008 In The Uncertain Business of Doing Good Larry Krotz explores the good intentions that underlie Westerners urge to help Africa focussing specifically on people involved in trying to end the Angolan civil war AIDS research and the UNIM circumcision research project in Kenya and the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda

The Uncertain Business of Doing Good Outsiders in Africa, 2012 The relationship between Westerners and Africa has long been conflicted and complicated Frequently exploitative it is also just as often propelled by an almost irresistible urge to do good The persistence of this impulse is intriguing From Doctor Livingstone 150 years ago to the rock star Bono today outsiders have championed foreign intervention in Africa in political social economic and health care reforms But underlying all these good intentions isn't there a hierarchical belief that we as outsiders somehow know what's best for Africa As a journalist and documentary filmmaker Larry Krotz follows the projects of Canadian American British and European scientists NGOs lawyers and peacekeepers all motivated in some manner by the desire to do good in Africa He focuses specifically on people involved in trying to end the Angolan civil war AIDS research in Kenya the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda and the UNIM circumcision research project in Kenya Along with telling their stories he examines the ethical and social implications of humanitarian and research projects in Africa raising many difficult yet critically important questions How have we come to think the way we do about Africa and its people What has motivated us to action for good or ill And in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds is there a choice between doing nothing and doing the well intended but perhaps wrong thing

A Canadian Girl in South Africa E. Maud Graham, 2015-07-16 A Canadian woman shares her story of traveling to South Africa to teach Boer children in concentration camps following the South African War As the South African War reached its grueling end in 1902 colonial interests at the highest levels of the British Empire hand picked teachers from across the Commonwealth to teach the thousands of Boer children living in concentration camps Highly educated hard working and often opinionated E Maud Graham joined the Canadian contingent of forty teachers Her eyewitness account reveals the complexity of relations and tensions at a controversial period in the histories of both Britain and South Africa Graham presents a lively historical travel memoir and the editors have provided rich political and historical context to her narrative in the Introduction and generous annotations This is a rare primary source for experts in Colonial Studies Women's Studies and Canadian South African and British Imperial History Readers with an interest in the South African War will be intrigued by Graham's observations on South African society at the end of the Victorian era A fascinating perspective on the country Graham's account will help others understand how the British and English speaking Canadians in South Africa perceived Boers and native southern Africans at the turn of the twentieth century and her descriptions reveal details about everyday life in South Africa at an important moment of transition Graham's book represents the perspective of a well embedded outsider reporting to far removed readers rather than that of a female teacher involved in international or imperial education Benjamin Bryce Historical Studies in Education Recommended for those who wish to learn more about South African history and early race relations or tensions Graham s opinionated writing will amuse and interest those researching women s studies Amy L Crofford African Studies Quarterly Volume 16 Attuned Leadership Reuel Khoza,2012-10-01 Leaders are not just born to the role They are born then made and sometimes unmade by their own actions A leader who is not attuned to his or her followers soon becomes a leader in limbo and invariably then fails Connectedness compassion empathy integrity humility reasonableness and a determination to be effective are the keys to attuned leadership An attuned leader can step boldly into an uncertain future with the certainty that followers will lend their support In this richly reflective discussion of leadership and transformation the author provides a guide to what constitutes ethical leadership in local and global contexts for business politics and government In a world where tyrants abound in corporations and in states Attuned Leadership provides a compass for the direction of ethical leadership Central to this perspective is that the philosophical traditions of Africa offer an important contribution to the theory and practice of leadership in the world today African humanism or Ubuntu evokes both reason and empathy as the basis for ethical leadership Ubuntu articulated in the Zulu proverb Umuntu Ngumuntu Ngabantu means that a person is a person because of other people The author contends that the reciprocal relationship between the individual and the social collective stimulates caring and progressive thought and action Nowhere is this more apt than in the relationship between leader and followers
