Water and Cities in Latin America Ismael Aguilar-Barajas, Jürgen Mahlknecht, Jonathan Kaledin, Marianne Kjellén, Abel Mejía-Betancourt, 2015-05-08 Approximately 80 per cent of the population of Latin America is concentrated in urban centres Pressure on water resources and water management in cities therefore provide major challenges Despite the importance of the issues there has been little systematic coverage of the topic in book form This work fills a gap in the literature by providing both thematic overviews and case study chapters It reviews key aspects of why water matters in cities and presents case studies on topics such as groundwater management green growth and water services inequalities in water supply the financing of water services and flood management Detailed examples are described from Argentina Brazil Colombia Ecuador Mexico and Peru and there is also a chapter comparing lessons which might be learnt from US cities Contributing authors are drawn from both within and outside the region including from the Inter American Development Bank OECD and World Bank to set the issues in a global context Think global certify local Anke Jurleit, 2015-03-17 global comparability and regional adaptation for community certification systems exemplified by the water infrastructural components in the community Sustainability in America's Cities Matthew I. Slavin, 2011-04-14 Highlights how America's largest cities are acting to develop sustainable solutions to conflicts between development and environment Specifically designed for undergraduate and graduate courses in sustainability this book provides empirically based multidisciplinary case studies of sustainability policy planning and practice in action Planning Sustainable Cities Spiro N. Pollalis, 2016-05-20 Planning Sustainable Cities An infrastructure based approach provides an analytical framework for urban sustainability focusing on the services and performance of infrastructure systems The book approaches infrastructure as a series of systems that function in synergy and are directly linked with urban planning This method streamlines and guides the planning process while still highlighting detail each infrastructure system is decoded in four system levels The levels organize the processes highlight connections between entities and decode the high level planning and decision making process affecting infrastructure For each system level strategic objectives of planning are determined The objectives correspond to the five focus areas of the Zofnass program Quality of life Natural World Climate and Risk Resource Allocation Leadership Developed through the Zofnass Program at the Harvard Graduate School of Design this approach integrates the key infrastructure systems of Energy Landscape Transportation Waste Water Information and Food and explores their synergies through land use planning engineering economics and policy The size and complexity of infrastructure systems means that multiple stakeholders facing their own challenges and agendas are involved in planning this book creates a common collaborative platform between public authorities planners and engineers It is an essential resource for those seeking Envision Sustainability Professionals accreditation Sustainable Cities in American Democracy Carmen Sirianni, 2020-09-25 We face two global threats the climate crisis and a crisis of democracy Located at the crux of these crises sustainable cities build on the foundations and resources of democracy to make our increasingly urban world more resilient and just Sustainable Cities in American Democracy focuses on this effort as it emerged and developed over the past decades in the institutional field of sustainable cities a vital response to environmental degradation and climate change that is shaped by civic and democratic action Carmen Sirianni shows how various kinds of civic associations and grassroots mobilizing figure in this story especially as they began to explicitly link conservation to the future of our democracy and then develop sustainable cities as a democratic project These organizations are national local or multitiered from the League of Women Voters to the Natural Resources Defense Council to bicycle and watershed associations Some challenge city government agencies contentiously while others seek collaboration many do both at some point Sirianni uses a range of analytic approaches from scholarly disciplines policy design urban governance social movements democratic theory public administration and planning to understand how such diverse civic and professional associations have come to be both an ecology of organizations and a systemic and coherent project The institutional field of sustainable cities has emerged with some core democratic norms and civic practices but also with many tensions and trade offs that must be crafted and revised strategically in the face of new opportunities and persistent shortfalls Sirianni's account draws ambitious yet pragmatic and hopeful lessons for a Civic Green New Deal a policy design for building sustainable and resilient cities on much more robust foundations in the decades ahead while also addressing democratic deficits in our polarized political culture

Managing America's Cities Roger L. Kemp, 2014-01-10 This work describes the operations of a typical municipal government and examines the many productivity trends that are occurring in city halls across America Much of the focus is on the increasing need for planning in city government to ensure that productivity goals are met It thoroughly examines the roles of the council manager and clerk in promoting increased productivity It then looks at such municipal departments as legal finance fire human services library police and public works demonstrating proven techniques and structures in each that improve service Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

WATER ACCOUNTING FOR WATER GOVERNANCE AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-06-27 There is growing interest in water accounting why it is needed what benefits it brings and equally important how it can be put into practice Water accounting is not a new idea yet it is an alarmingly simple one It is about quantifying water resources and uses of water much like financial accounts provide information on income and expenditure Interest in water accounting is based on the premise that We cannot plan and manage what we do not measure a statement that few would disagree with However given the current focus on water as a precious and limiting resource the risks of extreme floods and droughts and water's central role in the 2030 Agenda it is difficult to understand why so little attention is given to water accounting and to making sure we have enough water Indeed estimates suggest that by 2050 if we continue with our current approach to water management global water demand will exceed supply by over 40% which would put at risk 45% of global GDP 52% of the world's population and 40% of grain production WWDR 2016 This concern is supported by the World Economic Forum that consistently ranks water crises as a top global risk WEF 2015 Reports from South Africa January 2018 suggesting that Cape Town may be the world's first major city to face the prospect of running out of water following severe drought is a timely wake up call for everyone to focus on accounting for water
