The Time Of Our Lives A Conversation About America:

The Time of Our Lives Tom Brokaw, 2011 Wherever I go I am asked What has happened to us Have we lost our way

The Time of Our Lives , 2012 The author known for his landmark work in American journalism and for his other books The Greatest Generation and Boom now turns his attention to the challenges that face America in the new millennium to offer reflections on how we can restore America's greatness What happened to the America I thought I knew he writes Have we simply wandered off course but only temporarily Or have we allowed ourselves to be so divided that we are easy prey for hijackers who could steer us onto a path to a crash landing I do have some thoughts original and inspired by others for our journey into the heart of a new century Rooted in the values lessons and verities of generations past and of his South Dakota upbringing he weaves together stories of Americans who are making a difference and personal stories from his own family history to engage us in a conversation about our country and to offer ideas for how we can revitalize the promise of the American Dream Inviting us to foster a rebirth of family community and civic engagement as profound as the one that won World War II built our postwar prosperity and ushered in the Civil Rights era he traces the changes in modern life in values education public service housing the Internet and more that have transformed our society in the decades since the age of thrift in which he was raised Offering ideas from Americans who are change agents in their communities he gives us a book that is a vision of hopefulness in an age of diminished expectations

Our Times, Our Lives Eve Otto, Jozef Otto, 2004-11 Eve Otto explains When I began writing this book I had in the back of my mind that those who are young now might someday be interested in what life was like when their grandparents were growing up how life changed drastically with the coming of World War II in Europe and the turbulent years that followed the traumas of our emigration to America with our three young children and the difficult adjustments we had to make My book then is sort of a legacy to them

The Latehomecomer Kao Kalia Yang, 2010-12-15 In search of a place to call home thousands of Hmong families made the journey from the war torn jungles of Laos to the overcrowded refugee camps of Thailand and onward to America But lacking a written language of their own the Hmong experience has been primarily recorded by others Driven to tell her family's story after her grandmother's death The Latehomecomer is Kao Kalia Yang's tribute to the remarkable woman whose spirit held them all together It is also an eloquent firsthand account of a people who have worked hard to make their voices heard Beginning in the 1970s as the Hmong were being massacred for their collaboration with the United States during the Vietnam War Yang recounts the harrowing story of her family's captivity the daring rescue undertaken by her father and uncles and their narrow escape into Thailand where Yang was born in the Ban Vinai Refugee Camp When she was six years old Yang's family immigrated to America and she evocatively captures the challenges of adapting to a new place and a new language Through her words the dreams wisdom and traditions passed down from her grandmother and shared by an entire community have finally found a voice Together with her sister Kao Kalia Yang is the founder of a company dedicated to helping immigrants with writing translating and business services A graduate of Carleton College and Columbia University Yang has recently screened The Place Where We Were Born a film documenting the experiences of Hmong American refugees Visit her website at www.kaokaliayang.com

All Our Lives Matter Demonte Rochester, 2024-08-28 This book was inspired by the aspect that not only black lives but ALL OF OUR Lives Matter and A greater need for all of us to come together and how to get involved as well a show to get our young people involved

Telling Our Lives Frida Kerner Furman, Linda Williamson Nelson, Elizabeth A. Kelly, 2005-06-09 Telling Our Lives explores how three working class women from Jewish African American and Irish American backgrounds connect across their differences through storytelling and conversation Three distinct voices intertwine in this book as the authors now college professors discuss family legacies of diaspora and dislocation analyzing how these have shaped their personal and professional lives Social class ethnicity gender sexuality and spirituality intersect and diverge in these pages as the authors reflect on how they have been enriched and transformed by the relationships forged in the process of storytelling

The Laws of M.O.S.E.S (America's Financial Future) Claus M. Bohm, 2012-06-11 Dare to take a journey in a discussion to change the face of our financial world Discover a new way to run the United States economy with a simple approach that gives us all real freedom This content will not use economic jargon and complicated graphs It will analyze our system with simple models and theories We will then see how a system of fairness and equality can come from the effort This will be a true revolution in how we view money today and how we will handle it in the future This proposal questions and critiques our financial institutions It says we can do better to achieve something that has never been done before This unusual view of our financial system by spirituality and political morality will identify the hypocrisy of our times It will show and legitimize our reasons for building a new and sustainable capitalism
