The Treaty Of Nice The Treaty Of Nice:

The Treaty of Nice Explained Martyn Bond, Kim Feus, Federal Trust for Education and Research, 2001-11 As the European Union grows larger and more complex so members revise treaties to adjust to new circumstances This volume explores and explains The Treaty of Nice designed to help prepare the Union as it considers adding up to 12 new states many formerly behind the Iron Curtain

The Treaty of Nice Finn Laursen, 2005-12-01 This book gives a detailed analysis of the making of the Treaty of Nice the current treaty of the European Union adopted in 2000 It analysis the interests and strategies of the various actors including the 15 Member States during the negotiations and tries to explain the main institutional changes re weighting of votes in the Council of Ministers future changes in the composition of the European Commission extended use of qualified majority voting and easier conditions for a smaller group of Member States going faster in the integration process enhanced cooperation

The Treaty of Nice and Beyond Mads Andenas, John Usher, 2003-11-07 Designed to succeed previous books on the Maastricht and Amsterdam treaties this new work includes contributions from leading EU lawyers assessing the Nice Treaty and the Post Nice process which is rapidly developing in the lead up to the next Intergovernmental conference The book s central theme is the discussion of a European Constitution and European Constitutionalism The new constitutional balance after institutional reform the Luxembourg courts after Nice the future of the three pillar Treaty structure and the Human Rights charter are the other main topics Among the contributors are the editors Professor Stephen Weatherill Oxford Professor Noreen Burrows Glasgow Professor J rgen Schwarze Freiburg Professor Paul Craig Oxford Professor Jo Shaw Manchester Steve Peers Essex Professor Piet Eeckhout King s College London and Professor Alan Dashwood Cambridge

The Treaty of Nice in Perspective: Consolidated Treaty on European Union Anthony Cowgill, Andrew Cowgill, 2001

Nice Try Richard E. Baldwin, 2001 EU member nations must decide whether to ratify the Nice Treaty This report written to inform these decisions is highly critical of the Treaty but argues that it should be passed since it is repairable and rejecting it would delay Eastern enlargement It proposes two emergency repairs to the Treaty The authors marshal the best available empirical evidence and analytic techniques to show that the Treaty fails to meet its goal of adjusting EU decision making to the realities of a Union with 27 members Far from maintaining the EU s ability to act after enlargement the authors argue that the Nice reforms reduce EU27 decision making efficiency below what it would have been with no reform Unless the Treaty is mended future integration will be guided by intergovernmental initiatives in which large members play a large role due to their economic dominance The Treaty also fails to resolve the ECB s numbers problem enlargement without reform would also damage the ECB s decision making capacity The Treaty does include an enabling clause to help solve this problem the report analyses the possible solutions and proposes specific reforms

Enlargement of the EU and the Treaty of Nice Homa Motamen-Scobie,2002 The Nice Treaty will shape the future of the European Union Understanding the treaty and its implications is key for all those dealing with the applicant countries as well as those countries themselves Deciphering the volume of official material on the subject of EU entry can be arduous This report provides a clear and concise guide outlining the procedure for joining the EU It offers A comprehensive analysis of the countries in line for accession to the EU An unbiased assessment of the prospects for each of the candidate countries based on an indepth survey of the thirteen applicant countries An appraisal of the development of these markets A checklist of the key requirements for entry together with projections for their accession Insight into the views of existing member states the ultimate decision makers on the prospects for applicant countries based on interviews with actual decision makers including Prime Ministers Ministers of Foreign Affairs and officials of the European Commission A clear and unique guideline on the procedure and timing of entry for each applicant

How Much are the Central and Eastern European Countries (CEEC) Aligned with the Euro Area? Tobias Dümmler,Stephan Kienle,2008-05 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject Economics Monetary theory and policy grade 2 0 University of Frankfurt Main Schwerpunkt Geld und Wahrung course Seminar topics in monetary economics 25 entries in the bibliography language English abstract The intention of this paper is to discuss the alignment of the Central and Eastern European Countries CEEC with the euro area We tried to choose our alignment criteria in a way that is always referring to the consequences for a common monetary policy and the effects on transmission Nevertheless we have to emphasize that our intention is to give an overview how much the CEEC are aligned with the euro area unfortunately we would oversize this paper by discussing the consequences of the observed developments for a common monetary policy in detail We proceed as follows First we refer to the so called Maastricht Criteria because they are a guideline for the decision whether a new member state is prepared to join the euro area and use the Euro as an official currency or not We report graphs and figures of time series to illustrate developments The results serve as a good starting point for deeper analyses and suggest some evidence for an alignment process that has taken place over the last years across the CEEC Second in order to gain a wider impression of the current state of alignment we try to approach from another direction We are making reference to the theory of optimum currency areas which will be briefly discussed In the light of this approach we continue with studying the alignment and present other criteria which seem to be appropriate beside inflation rates we focus on GDP private consumption and unemployment and are able to deliver important clues for our discussion We provide some descriptive analyses including cross correlation analyses of the time series we dealt with in this chapter Unfortunately there are developments in the time series we cannot explain sufficiently

The WTO, the Internet and Trade in Digital Products Sacha Wunsch-Vincent, 2006-01-20

The rapid development of the Internet has led to a growing potential for electronic trade in digital content like movies music and software As a result there is a need for a global trade framework applicable to such digitally delivered content products Yet digital trade is currently not explicitly recognised by the trade rules and obligations of the World Trade Organization WTO This study provides a complete analysis of the related challenges in the ongoing WTO Doha Negotiations to remedy this state of affairs It elaborates on the required measures in the multilateral negotiations to achieve market access for digital content and examines the obstacles that lie on the path to reach consensus between the United States and the European Communities Negotiation parameters analysed include the current US and EC regulatory approach to audiovisual and information society services and the evolution of their applicable trade policy jurisdiction Finally this examination takes stock of how the Doha Negotiations and parallel US driven preferential trade agreement have so far contributed to securing free trade in digital content As new technologies are an increasingly prominent source of trade dispute this book is an assessment of how WTO Members can maintain the relevance of the multilateral trade framework in a changing technological and economic environment This important work highlights the missed opportunity in on going global trade talks the failure to pursue a free trade framework for digitally delivered content If not corrected one can readily imagine the rise of discriminatory barriers to digital trade of the type that have dogged global trade flows for years and a failed recognition by the WTO of the reality of modern commerce The WTO should as the author argues put a spotlight on electronic trade and move forward in a comprehensive fashion Ambassador Charlene Barshefsky Former United States Trade Representative Wunsch Vincent provides a comprehensive analysis of the challenges to establish a liberal trade regime for trade in digital products This book will become an important point of reference for anybody interested in e commerce and the WTO Carlos A Primo Braga Senior Adviser International Trade Department The World Bank

The Treaty of Nice A. Yataganas, 2008

This paper presents an initial response to the conclusions of the Nice Summit and the new EU Treaty which emerged from it It consists of two parts in the first I discuss the climate in which the Intergovernmental Conference IGC took place and the opening positions of the Institutions the Member States and the applicant countries The results achieved at Nice are set out in the second part with special emphasis on the themes that mark a shift of power within the Community's institutional architecture i e the extension of qualified majority voting in the Council and the co decision procedure with the European Parliament the reweighting of votes and the composition of the Institutions with a view to an enlargement which is both imminent and unprecedented in the history of the EU I conclude that while the results of the IGC and the new Treaty of Nice fall short of what is needed in an EU with ambitions on a continental scale they do mark another stage in the process of European integration and the permanent evolution of its constitution In this sense the balance of power is likely to be different from what it has been in the past The Franco German axis has been severely weakened the UK and Spain seem to be determined to play a central role and the smaller countries are seeking to retain some influence over how the process works New alliances are likely to emerge particularly after enlargement with Germany in search of a dominant position France desperately trying to preserve the status quo and the UK wanting to influence the direction of moves towards integration from the inside Nice seems to mark an interim stage in this process A new IGC has already been scheduled for 2004 There is no doubt that the post Nice period will be one of transition towards a new distribution of power within the EU sanctioned by a new highly constitutional treaty
