

The book cover features a detailed illustration of a winter scene. In the foreground, a Native American man wearing a red cap and a dark tunic with a yellow sash is skiing towards the left. He is carrying a bow and arrow. To his left, another figure in a dark cloak is also skiing. In the background, several other figures are scattered across the snowy field, some appearing to be resting or working. The landscape is dotted with bare trees and patches of snow. In the distance, a small settlement with a prominent red-roofed building is visible. The overall color palette is muted, with a lot of white and grey, accented by the red of the skier's cap and the dark tones of the figures and trees.

The Unredeemed Captive A Family Story From Early America:

The Unredeemed Captive John Demos, 2011-05-04 Nominated for the National Book Award and winner of the Francis Parkman Prize The setting for this haunting and encyclopedically researched work of history is colonial Massachusetts where English Puritans first endeavoured to civilize a savage native populace There in February 1704 a French and Indian war party descended on the village of Deerfield abducting a Puritan minister and his children Although John Williams was eventually released his daughter horrified the family by staying with her captors and marrying a Mohawk husband Out of this incident The Bancroft Prize winning historian John Devos has constructed a gripping narrative that opens a window into North America where English French and Native Americans faced one another across gulfs of culture and belief and sometimes crossed over The Unredeemed Captive John Demos, 1996 The Unredeemed Captive John Demos, 1994

The Unredeemed Captive John Demos, 1994 Describes the 1704 French and Indian attack on Deerfield Massachusetts and the capture of Puritan minister John Williams and his five children one of whom remained with her captors despite numerous attempts to free her Engaging Children in Vast Early America Julia M. Gossard, Holly N.S.

White, 2024-09-02 Engaging Children in Vast Early America examines the often overlooked roles that children played in moments of contact between Indigenous groups Europeans and Africans in North and South America over the course of the seventeenth through nineteenth centuries Adulthood is the default lens through which most of history is examined This is because so few historians analyze the age or life stage of those they study As a result people of the past are often assumed to be adults when their actions or experiences align more closely with what modern society deems adultlike Many of these assumed adults however were agentive children This collaborative collection is the first of its kind to invite experts in the field of Vast Early America to engage with the history of childhood and youth The result is nine innovative essays that expand our understanding of childhood and agentive children but also of empire and everyday life in Vast Early America This accessible text is a unique resource for undergraduate courses in childhood and youth history family history and early American history Inequality in Early America Carla Gardina Pestana, 2015-03-24 This book was designed as a collaborative effort to satisfy a long felt need to pull together many important but separate inquiries into the nature and impact of inequality in colonial and revolutionary America It also honors the scholarship of Gary Nash who has contributed much of the leading work in this field The 15 contributors who constitute a Who's Who of those who have made important discoveries and reinterpretations of this issue include Mary Beth Norton on women's legal inequality in early America Neal Salisbury on Puritan missionaries and Native Americans Laurel Thatcher Ulrich on elite and poor women's work in early Boston Peter Wood and Philip Morgan on early American slavery as well as Gary Nash himself writing on Indian white history This book is a vital contribution to American self understanding and to historical analysis Transatlantic Fictions of 9/11 and the War on Terror Susana Araújo, 2015-10-22 Extending the study of post 9/11 literature to include transnational perspectives this book explores the ways in which contemporary writers from Europe as well as the USA have responded to the attacks on the World Trade Centre and the ensuing war on terror Transatlantic Fictions of 9 11 and the War on Terror demonstrates the ways in which contemporary fiction has wrestled with anxieties about national and international security in the 21st century Reading a wide range of novels by such writers as Amy Waldman Michael Cunningham Fr d ric Beigbeder Ian McEwan Joseph O Neill Moshin Hamid Jos Saramago Ricardo Men ndez Salm n J M Coetzee and Salman Rushdie Susana Ara jo explores how the rhetoric of the war on terror has shaped recent representations of the city and how security discourses circulate transatlantically and transnationally By focusing not only on 9 11 but also on the way subsequent events such as the wars in Afghanistan and in Iraq are represented in fiction this book demonstrates how notions of terror and insecurity have been absorbed reworked or critiqued in fiction Ara jo examines to what extent transatlantic relations have reinforced or challenged new fictions of white western middle class captivity The Captive's Position Teresa A.

Toulouse,2013-04-23 Why do narratives of Indian captivity emerge in New England between 1682 and 1707 and why are these texts so centrally concerned with women s experience supported and even written by a powerful group of Puritan ministers In The Captive s Position Teresa Toulouse argues for a new interpretation of the captivity narrative one that takes into account the profound shifts in political and social authority and legitimacy that occurred in New England at the end of the seventeenth century While North American narratives of Indian captivity had been written before this period by French priests and other European adventurers those stories had focused largely on Catholic conversions and martyrdoms or male strategies for survival among the Indians In contrast the New England texts represented a colonial Protestant woman who was separated brutally from her family but who demonstrated qualities of religious acceptance humility and obedience until she was eventually returned to her own community Toulouse explores how the female captive s position came to resonate so powerfully for traditional male elites in the second and third generation of the Massachusetts colony Threatened by ongoing wars with Indians and French as well as by a range of royal English interventions in New England political and cultural life figures such as Increase Mather Cotton Mather and John Williams perceived themselves to be equally challenged by religious and social conflicts within New England By responding to and employing popular representations of female captivity they were enabled to express their ambivalence toward the world of their fathers and toward imperial expansion and thereby to negotiate their own complicated sense of personal and cultural identity Examining the captivity narratives of Mary Rowlandson Hannah Dustan Hannah Swarton and John Williams who comes to stand in for the female captive Toulouse asserts the need to read these gendered texts as cultural products that variably engage shape and confound colonial attitudes toward both Europe and the local scene in Massachusetts In doing so The Captive s Position offers a new story of the rise and breakdown of orthodox Puritan captivities and a meditation on the relationship between dreams of authority and historical change The Hill Horace Annesley Vachell,1913 American Eras: The colonial era, 1600-1754 Jessica
