Mobilizing the South Christopher M. Rein, 2022-08-23 Throughout its history the United States has fought its major wars by mobilizing large numbers of citizen soldiers While the small peacetime regular army provided trained leadership and a framework for growth the citizen soldier from the minuteman of the American Revolution to Civil War volunteers and the draftees of World War II have successfully prosecuted the nation's major wars But the Army and the nation have never fully resolved the myriad problems surrounding the mobilization and employment of reserve troops National Guard divisions in World War II suffered from neglect during the interwar period and Great Depression and regular Army commanders often replaced or relieved National Guard officers which generated lingering resentment At the same time draftees from across the nation diluted the regional affiliations of many units with a corresponding effect on morale and esprit de corps Chris Rein's study of one division recruited from the Gulf South and employed in the Southwest Pacific Theater in 1944 and 1945 highlights the challenges of reserve mobilization training and the combat deployment of National Guard units His account demonstrates the still strong connections between the local communities that hosted and supported National Guard companies before the war even after an influx of new personnel nationalized the units and they shipped overseas The 31st Division reorganized after combat deployment in World War I consisted primarily of infantry regiments from Florida Alabama Mississippi and until 1942 Louisiana Mobilized for federal service in late 1940 the division participated in the critical Louisiana and Carolina Maneuvers in 1941 but then languished for the next two years as a training organization though it provided trained cadres and replacements for other divisions the Army deployed to Europe and the Pacific In 1944 the division finally shipped overseas enduring the brutal conditions in the Southwest Pacific but successfully conducting landings on the New Guinea coast in support of Gen Douglas MacArthur's island hopping campaign directed at liberating the Philippines After a change in leadership on the second day of the amphibious assault on Morotai the division supported the liberation of Mindanao the southernmost major island in the archipelago before redeploying for demobilization at the end of 1945 Rein's study traces the division's decades of duty from the interwar period when it contended with a series of devastating natural disasters through its mobilization and combat deployment However within the 31st Division's story there are several significant issues that remain highly relevant for reserve deployment today The first centers on the issue of World War II era National Guard leadership The Army implemented a purge of overage and less competent National Guard division commanders in order to replace them with younger officers of the regular Army Maj Gen John C Persons a pre war Birmingham resident and Alabama National Guard officer commanded the division throughout the peacetime mobilization and training and the first operation in New Guinea only to be summarily fired on the second day of the Morotai landings an action not adequately explained in the existing literature The second issue concerns the Army's nationalization of regional units While this policy has the benefit of spreading any casualties across the nation rather than duplicate the horrific losses of the Bedford Boys of the 29th Infantry Division that devastated one small Virginia community it also erodes regional identity and esprit de corps This work is a case study of the strength and weaknesses of units with a regional identity and explores the connections with the home front once that identity erodes It also examines the Dixie Division's operational and strategic evolution but just as importantly details drawn from soldiers correspondence and oral histories to show how their exposure to a larger world including service alongside African American and Filipino units changed their views on race and post war society Beware of Dog Melissa Crawley, 2021-05-14 For many of us the only way we meet dangerous dogs is through news reports about vicious attacks and films and TV shows that feature out of control versions of man's best friend But there's more to the Bad Dog's story than sensational headlines and movie beasts A deeper look at these representations reveals a villain much closer to home This book takes the reader on a rich journey through depictions of violent dogs in popular media It explores how press accounts and screen stories transform canines into bloodthirsty hunters rabies infested strays ferocious fighters rogue law enforcement partners and diabolical pets all adding up to a frightening picture of our usually beloved companions But when media tells the dangerous dog's story it is often with a deep connection to the person on the other end of the leash

Animals Go to War Connie Goldsmith, 2018-08-01 In the twenty first century military marine mammals detect lost equipment and underwater mines Large rats are trained to find land mines in more than 80 countries Military working dogs search for explosive devices and other weapons and are trained to take down enemy combatants In earlier centuries military fighters rode horses into battle relied on elephants to haul supplies and trained pigeons to carry messages Even cats goats and chickens have served in wartime as mascots Learn about the history of animals in warfare the functions they serve and how they are trained as well as the psychology that makes animals such good partners in warfare Hero Dogs Wilma Melville, Paul Lobo, 2019-01-08 A true story of unadoptable dogs who became search and rescue heroes Readers will delight in the personalities of both the people and the animals Library Journal Lola was a buckshot riddled stray lost on a Memphis highway Cody was rejected from seven different homes Ace had been sprayed with mace and left for dead on a train track They were deemed unadoptable Untrainable Unsalvageable These would become the same dogs America relied on when its worst disasters hit In 1995 Wilma Melville volunteered as a canine search and rescue SAR handler with her Black Labrador Murphy in the aftermath of the Oklahoma City bombing At the time there were only fifteen FEMA certified SAR dogs in the United States Believing in the value of these remarkable animals to help save lives Wilma knew many more were needed in the event of future major disasters She made a vow to help 168 dogs receive search and rescue training in her lifetime one for every Oklahoma City victim Wilma singlehandedly established the National Disaster Search Dog Foundation SDF to meet this challenge The first canine candidates Ana Dusty and Harley were a trio of golden retrievers with behavioral problems so severe the dogs were considered irredeemable and unadoptable But with patience discipline and love applied during training they proved to have the ability agility and stamina to graduate as SARs Paired with a trio of firefighters they were among the first responders searching the ruins of the World Trade Center following 9 11 setting the standard for the more than 168 of the SDF s search and rescue dogs that followed Beautiful and heart wrenching Hero Dogs is the story of one woman s dream brought to fruition by dedicated volunteers and firefighters and the bonds they forged with the incredible rescued turned rescuer dogs to create one of America s most vital resources in disaster response Includes photographs
