Reading the Old Norse-Icelandic “Maríu saga” in Its Manuscript Contexts Daniel C. Najork, 2021-02-08 Maríu saga the Old Norse Icelandic life of the Virgin Mary survives in nineteen manuscripts While the 1871 edition of the saga provides two versions based on multiple manuscripts and prints significant variants in the notes it does not preserve the literary and social contexts of those manuscripts In the extant manuscripts Maríu saga rarely exists in the codex by itself This study restores the saga to its manuscript contexts in order to better understand the meaning of the text within its manuscript matrix why it was copied in the specific manuscripts it was and how it was read and used by the different communities that preserved the manuscripts A Companion to Saxo Grammaticus, 2024-06-17 Ever since the publication of Saxo Grammaticus Gesta Danorum at the beginning of the thirteenth century scholars and laymen have grappled with the complex and marvellous chronicle As much specialized scholarship has been published in Danish this companion breaks new ground by giving a comprehensive and up to date tour of the work for a global audience Attention is given to the unity of Saxo's massive chronicle whether he is dealing with a legendary pagan past or events from his own time Saxo's world and views are explored in ways that shed new light on all of northern Europe Contributors are Björn Bandlien Karsten Friis Jensen Michael H. Gelting Thomas K. Heebøll Holm Lars Hermanson Lars Kjær Torben Kjersgaard Nielsen Annette Lassen Anders Leegaard Knudsen Lars Boje Mortensen Mia Münster Swendsen Erik Niblaeus Roland Scheel Karen Skovgaard Petersen Kurt Villads Jensen and Helle Vogt The Psychology of False Confessions Gisli H. Gudjonsson, 2018-07-23 Provides a comprehensive and up to date review of the development of the science behind the psychology of false confessions Four decades ago little was known or understood about false confessions and the reasons behind them So much has changed since then due in part to the diligent work done by Gisli H. Gudjonsson This eye opening book by the Icelandic British clinical forensic psychologist who in the mid 1970s had worked as detective in Reykjavík offers a complete and current analysis of how the study of the psychology of false confessions came about including the relevant theories and empirical experimental evidence base It also provides a reflective review of the gradual development of the science and how it can be applied to real life cases Based on Gudjonsson's personal account of the biggest murder investigations in Iceland's history as well as other landmark cases The Psychology of False Confessions Forty Years of Science and Practice takes readers inside the minds of those who sit on both sides of the interrogation table to examine why confessions to crimes occur even when the confessor is innocent Presented in three parts the book covers how the science of studying false confessions emerged and grew to become a regular field of practice It then goes deep into the investigation of the mid 1970s assumed murders of two men in Iceland and the people held responsible for them It finishes with an in depth psychological analysis of the confessions of the six people convicted Written by an expert extensively involved in the development of the science and its application to real life cases Covers the most sensational murder cases in Iceland's history Deep analysis of the Reykjavík Confessions adds crucial evidence to understanding how and why coerced internalized false confessions occur and their detrimental and lasting effects on memory

The Psychology of False Confessions Forty Years of Science and Practice is an important source book for students academics criminologists and clinical forensic and social psychologists and psychiatrists

Modern Mathematics Dirk De Bock, 2023-03-08 The international New Math developments between about 1950 through 1980 are regarded by many mathematics educators and education historians as the most historically important development in curricula of the twentieth century It attracted the attention of local and international politicians of teachers and of parents and influenced the teaching and learning of mathematics at all levels kindergarten to college graduate in many nations After garnering much initial support it began to attract criticism But as Bill Jacob and the late Jerry Becker show in Chapter 17 some of the effects became entrenched This volume edited by Professor Dirk De Bock of Belgium provides an outstanding overview of the New Math modern mathematics movement Chapter authors provide exceptionally high quality analyses of the rise of the movement and of subsequent developments within a range of nations The first few chapters show how the initial leadership came from mathematicians in European nations and in the United States of America The background leaders in Europe were Caleb Gattegno and members of a mysterious group of mainly French pure mathematicians who since the 1930s had published under the name of a fictitious Nicolas Bourbaki In the United States there emerged during the 1950s various attempts to improve U S mathematics curricula and teaching especially in secondary schools and colleges This side of the story climaxed in 1957 when the Soviet Union succeeded in launching Sputnik the first satellite Undoubtedly this is a landmark publication in education The foreword was written by Professor Bob Moon one of a few other scholars to have written on the New Math from an international perspective The final epilogue chapter by Professor Geert Vanpaemel a historian draws together the overall thrust of the volume and makes links with the general history of curriculum development especially in science education including recent globalization trends
