Transition ,1997 The Romanian Mass Media and Cultural Development David Berry,2004 This assesses the development of the mass media since the Romanian Revolution in December 1989 and the media s impact on cultural development the public sphere civil society and democracy It controversially claims that Romania s failure to experience a thoroughgoing enlightenment project in its entire history remains a major obstacle for producing democratic ownership of the media and democratic development of society development the book also discusses the effects of Romanian law on media and societal development ethics and media responsibilities It concludes however that far from having an absolutely negative impact on Romanian post communism the media has helped produce a contradictory empirical form that equally contains positive moments in terms of subjective cultural development What/Who Are We After the Transition? Dorel Ailenei,Anca Dachin,C?t?lin Huidumac-Petrescu,Mariana Iovi?u,Marius-Corneliu Marina?,Christina Marta Suciuc,2015 What Who are we After the Transition is not only an expression fit for a book title but also a tense issue whose rational solutions are slow in coming amid the vibrating emotion for the life changing consistency differential The prospects of long processes cover a life expectancy but in Romania where generations of sacrifice succeeded one after another time does not have enough patience to run smoothly The assessment made in this book is an attempt at decoding what has been done by the last generation i e the transitional generation from communism to capitalism The authors reunited under the Research and Economic Analysis Centre part of the Department of Economics and Economic Policies from the Faculty of Theoretical and Applied Economics which is part of the Bucharest University of Economics In their analyses the authors refer to the mental milestones of Romanian society that was built on frail social slopes The different parts of Romanian society do not always agree with each other between what we are and what we stand for as a people or as nation between what we can and what we do between what we want and what we have The topics referred to herein come with a bit of historical background but they are approached starting with the need to explain why things happened this way and why it is not as we expected from the standpoint of higher individual and societal amenities The authors were driven by the moral burden to identify a progress generating formula even under tough external constraints stemming from any arrangement conditionality or commitment undertaken by an open economy country with Western geostrategic options Remembering Transitions Ksenia Robbe,2023-10-04 This volume offers critical perspectives on memories of political and socioeconomic transitions that took place between the 1970s and 1990s across the globe and that inaugurated the end of the Cold War The essays respond to a wealth of recent works of literature film theatre and other media in different languages that rethink the transformations of those decades in light of present day crises The authors scrutinize the enduring silences produced by established frameworks of memory and time and explore the mnemonic practices that challenge these frameworks by positing radical ambivalence or by articulating new perspectives and subjectivities As a whole the volume contributes to current debates and theory making in critical memory studies by reflecting on how the changing recollection of transitions constitutes a response to the crisis of memory and time regimes and how remembering these times as crises renders visible continuities between this past and the present It is a valuable resource for academics students practitioners and general readers interested in exploring the dynamics of memory in post authoritarian societies THE FAILURE OF THE GOVERNMENT-LED PROGRAM OF CORPORATE REORGANIZATION IN ROMANIA SIMEON DJANKOV AND KOSALI ILAYPERUMA,1997 Official Export Guide North American Publishing Company,1993 Focus Americas ,1993 Focus on International and Comparative Librarianship ,1995 Blueprints, Red Tape, and Shades of Gray.
