A Story Lately Told Anjelica Huston, 2013-11-19 Anjelica Huston's life once she turned 15 and moved to London is a who's who of popular culture from the Rolling Stones in late 60s London to the Chelsea Hotel in New York when she was modelling in the early 70s to Jack Nicholson and Warren Beatty in 70s and 80s Los Angeles to Hunter Thompson in Aspen. She is a force who has won every possible acting award working with some of the greatest directors of her time and a friend to many of the greatest artists, writers, actors, and musicians. One could say it was a charmed life, an enviable life, and she would agree. But it is a life also full of so much tragedy and sadness, and Huston writes about both triumph and hardship with extraordinary eloquence and depth. A stunning achievement, her memoir ranks among the best in the genre. The History of Neuroscience in Autobiography Larry R. Squire, 2011-09-09 The seventh volume of The History of Neuroscience in Autobiography is a collection of autobiographical essays by distinguished senior neuroscientists in which they recount the events that shaped their lives and identify the mentors and colleagues who inspired them. The narratives provide a human dimension to the world of scientific research. How to Pass College Entrance Tests David Reuben Turner, 1956 The Mathematical Gazette, 1904 Echoes of the Sixties Marti Smiley Childs, Jeff March, 1999 In tune with the interest in oldies music, the author has interviewed a variety of music industry people to spotlight 43 of the musical composers and performers who influenced an entire generation. Illustrations. Losing the Precious Few Richard Tapia, 2022-04-30 A professor for almost 50 years in Rice University's Department of Computational and Applied Mathematics, nationally acclaimed scholar Richard Tapia is struck by the number of Chinese students in the hallways and wonders how the United States can remain globally competitive. Tapia asserts it is critical to the nation's health and well-being to improve the representation of the precious few or domestic minority groups in STEM education and careers. African Americans and Latinos alone make up 31% of the population, and he writes the country cannot maintain its economic and scientific health when such a large part of the population is left out of science and engineering. In addition, he contends the United States will not have racial justice without educational justice. Underrepresented groups must have equal access to higher education. This thought-provoking book examines issues that contribute to the lack of minorities in graduate STEM programs, including a dependence on standardized tests, deficiencies in K-12 education, and historic and ongoing racism. As a long-time mentor, he has seen first-hand that professors have lower expectations of these students. In a survey of Rice University faculty, only 6% agreed that underrepresented minorities have talent in the field of study. Unfortunately, professors often interpret poor performance for lack of ability despite the undoubtable fact that most of these students have not had the same quality education as their Anglo peers and are therefore not as well prepared. Providing a road map to increase the representation of domestic minority learners in academia and STEM fields, this is a must-read for university administrators and professors who want to attract and retain a diverse student body. In addition, Tapia includes advice for students, their parents, and teachers.
