Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of obese women. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 15 obese women (mean age 45.8 ± 10.2 years, mean BMI 38.5 ± 5.5 kg/m²). The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group (n = 7) and an intervention group (n = 8). The control group was instructed to maintain their current diet and lifestyle, while the intervention group was instructed to follow a 1000 kcal energy deficit diet. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The assessment included body composition (body weight, body fat percentage, lean body mass) and physical fitness (maximal oxygen consumption, maximal heart rate, maximal power output). The results showed that the intervention group had a significant decrease in body weight, body fat percentage, and lean body mass compared to the control group. The intervention group also had a significant increase in maximal oxygen consumption, maximal heart rate, and maximal power output compared to the control group. The results suggest that a 12-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet can improve body composition and physical fitness in obese women.
