

A Wedding Sermon

I. INTRODUCTION:

A. The Generally Recognized Importance of Marriage—

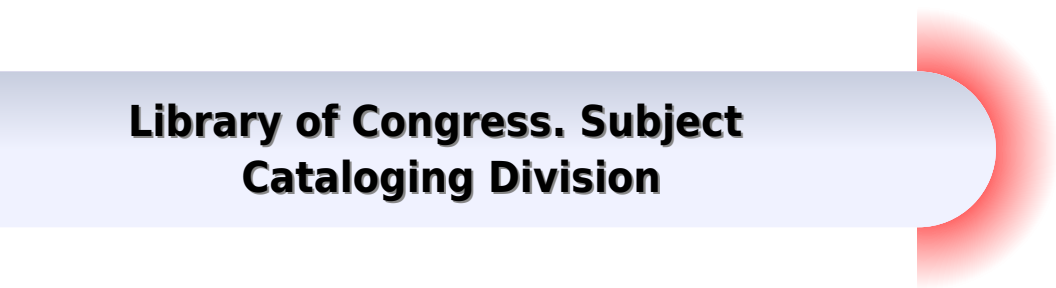

1. Marriage is both a civil and a sacred institution. It is the grand social institution of humanity. Its laws and relationships are of momentous importance to the human race.
2. Every state that is wisely governed has good laws protecting and preserving marriage. Mankind has throughout their history recognized the significance of this relationship in maintaining a society that is healthy, happy, prosperous and secure.
3. The disciples of Christ have followed their Savior in developing traditions that honor, encourage and exalt what they regard as “holy matrimony.” In doing so, they have secured for themselves the growth of the Church of Christ. This growth is sure to continue, so long as men and women honor the vows they make in marriage. In those homes built upon the foundation of scriptural marriage the religious education of children is provided, prayers to God are offered unhindered, morality, benevolence and spirituality are advanced, and the development of suitable experience for greater leadership is gained. God has ordained the home to be the training ground for the nation and the church.

B. The Higher Spiritual Importance of this Institution—

1. I have said that the marriage relationship is significant, important, sacred and holy. But what makes it so?
2. Is it only because of the good and usefulness it secures to the nation that we regard marriage so highly? Is our regard for it based solely on the blessings, joys and comforts it gives to those who seek its embrace? While the social reformers and the philosophers of our day may think and say so, your regard for marriage must be higher and holier than that.
3. The Bible says that marriage is to be “held in honor” (Heb. 13:4), that is esteemed and respected. Our regard for the bonds of matrimony rests entirely in the person of the Almighty God of Heaven because it is He who ordained it (Gen. 2:18-24); it is He who governs it (Matt. 19:6), and it is He who witnesses the oaths taken in it (Mal. 2:14).
4. You must recognize the holiness of the bond and the sacredness of this institution as you pledge by the laws of God to be true to each other until death. God tells us that marriage is a solemn and perpetual covenant between one man and one woman to live together in mutual love throughout life. This covenant endures far beyond the ceremonies and celebrations of today. It endures through the joys and pleasures of a lifetime. Yet, its endurance is greater still, God expects
