Trend IQ Configuration Reference Manual:

An Assessment Guide To Geriatric Neuropsychology Holly Tuokko, Thomas Hadjistavropoulos, 2014-04-04 At least half of all neuropsychological assessments are performed on elderly persons but the information clinicians need to make appropriate judgment calls is widely scattered Several books offering general descriptions of the cognitive functioning of the aged or of neuropsychological conditions affecting them are helpful to practitioners but do not provide reliable and valid normative information Two books that do provide this information do not focus on geriatric populations A concise yet comprehensive summary of what we now know about those over 65 with an extensive bibliography An Assessment Guide to Geriatric Neuropsychology fills the gap The neuropsychological assessment of elderly persons involves not only the performance based measurement of various capacities but heavy reliance on reports from caregivers both formal and informal about the day to day functioning of the affected person It also raises important yet often neglected ethical concerns The authors discuss all the measures that detect and discriminate among cognitive disorders of elderly persons including special measures relevant to caregiver reports and provide useful tables to assist in differential diagnosis They also reflect on the ethical issues that often confront the assessor of an elderly individual informed consent confidentiality the right of bodily autonomy and self determination and appropriate feedback This book will be an invaluable resource for all those called on to evaluate older clients

Guide to Psychological Assessment with African Americans Lorraine T. Benuto, Brian D. Leany, 2014-11-20 The movements toward cultural sensitivity and evidence based practice are watershed developments in clinical psychology As a population with a long history of substandard treatment from mental health systems African Americans have especially benefitted from these improvements But as with other racial and ethnic minorities finding relevant test measures in most psychological domains presents clinicians with an ongoing challenge The Guide to Psychological Assessment with African Americans aims to close the evaluation therapy gap by giving practitioners the tools to choose appropriate instruments while respecting client individuality Expert contributors analyze scarce and far flung data identify strengths and limitations of measures and norms in their use with African American clients and advise on avoiding biases in interpreting results The editors advocate for a theory based hypothesis testing approach to assessment when empirical evidence is lacking and offer guidelines for decision making that is effective as well as ethnically aware The Guide s findings insights and practical information cover the gamut of test and diagnostic areas including IQ and personality Generalized anxiety disorder panic and phobias Neuropsychological assessment cognitive decline and dementia Mood disorders and suicidality Forensic assessment risk and recidivism Measures specific to children and adolescents Plus PTSD substance disorders eating pathology and more

Expertly complementing cross cultural treatment texts the Guide to Psychological Assessment with African Americans stands out as a trustworthy resource for treatment planning useful to clinical psychologists neuropsychologists and clinical social workers
