We Have Been Believers Unknown Edition By Evans James H Jr 1993:

Hearing Past the Pain Jon Nilson, 2007 Hearing Past the Pain demonstrates that white Catholic theology in the United States is racist insofar as it ignores America's original sin of racism and continues to marginalize black theology. The book outlines historical factors which account for this racism: the residential segregation in the urban North, the ideal of integration and assimilation that represses the uniqueness of the African American experience, the impact of Vatican II on Catholic theology in the United States, and the separatist tone of early black theology that seemed to deny any partnership in its agenda with white theologians. Using the work of Bernard Lonergan and David Tracy, Hearing Past the Pain insists that the methodological demands of Roman Catholic theology itself, quite apart from the moral imperatives of racial justice, require Catholic theologians to confront racism in the United States and to collaborate with their black colleagues to develop a theology more adequate to the challenges of our time. Introducing the New Testament John William Drane, 2001 Drane's newest edition retains the clarity, accessibility, and graphic interest that have made it a favorite introduction for a decade. This revised edition also adds a full account of recent scholarly developments in areas such as the historical Jesus, the theologies of the four Gospels, and the role of Paul in the transformation of the church into a separate movement from Judaism. This edition also includes a new chapter on the interpretation of the New Testament.

J. N. Darby and the Roots of Dispensationalism Crawford Gribben, 2024 John Nelson Darby is best known as the architect of the most influential system of end times thinking among the world's half a billion evangelicals. This book re-examines Darby's thought and argues that claims that Darby is the father of dispensationalism may need to be revised.

Constructing Jesus Dale C. Allison, Jr., 2010-11-01 Best Book Relating to the New Testament 2011 Biblical Archaeology Society BAS Publication Award What did Jesus think of himself? How did he face death? What were his expectations of the future? In this volume, now in paperback, internationally renowned Jesus scholar Dale Allison Jr. addresses such perennially fascinating questions about Jesus. The acclaimed hardcover edition received the Biblical Archaeology Society's Best Book Relating to the New Testament award in 2011. Representing the fruit of several decades of research, this major work questions standard approaches to Jesus studies and rethinks our knowledge of the historical Jesus in light of recent progress in the scientific study of memory. Allison's groundbreaking alternative strategy calls for applying what we know about the function of human memory to our reading of the Gospels in order to construct Jesus more soundly.
