The Immaculate Conception of Data Kelly Bronson, 2022-08-15 Every new tractor now contains built in sensors that collect data and stream it to cloud based infrastructure Seed and chemical companies are using these data and these agribusinesses are a form of big tech alongside firms like Google and Facebook The Immaculate Conception of Data peeks behind the secretive legal agreements surrounding agricultural big data to trace how it is used and with what consequences Agribusinesses are among the oldest oligopoly corporations in the world and their concentration gives them an advantage over other food system actors Kelly Bronson explores what happens when big data get caught up in pre existing arrangements of power Her richly ethnographic account details the work of corporate scientists farmers using the data and activist hackers building open source data platforms Actors working in private and public contexts have divergent views on whom new technology is for how it should be developed and what kinds of agriculture it should support Surprisingly despite their differences these groups share a way of speaking about data and its value for the future Bronson calls this the immaculate conception of data arguing that this phenomenon is a dangerous framework for imagining big data and what it might do for society Drawing our attention to agriculture as an important new site for big tech criticism The Immaculate Conception of Data uniquely bridges science and technology studies critical data studies and food studies bringing to light salient issues related to data justice and a sustainable food system

When Weather Matters National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate, Committee on Progress and Priorities of U.S. Weather Research and Research-to-Operations Activities, 2010-11-09 The past 15 years have seen marked progress in observing understanding and predicting weather At the same time the United States has failed to match or surpass progress in operational numerical weather prediction achieved by other nations and failed to realize its prediction potential as a result the nation is not mitigating weather impacts to the extent possible This book represents a sense of the weather community as guided by the discussions of a Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate community workshop held in summer 2009 The book puts forth the committee's judgment on the most pressing high level weather focused research challenges and research to operations needs and makes corresponding recommendations The book addresses issues including observations global non hydrostatic coupled modeling data assimilation probabilistic forecasting and quantitative precipitation and hydrologic forecasting The book also identifies three important emerging issues predictions of very high impact weather urban meteorology and renewable energy development not recognized or emphasized in previous studies Cutting across all of these challenges is a set of socioeconomic issues whose importance and emphasis while increasing has been undervalued and underemphasized in the past and warrants greater recognition and priority today
