Zen and the Art of Public School Teaching John Perricone,2005 This book is based upon two assumptions The first is that we teach who we are and the second is that one s philosophy of life is intimately tied to one s identity and that it is one s philosophical identity conscious or otherwise that ultimately dictates one s teaching style and also what distinguishes those who find joy and passion in the teaching profession from those who find drudgery and then simply pick up a paycheck every two weeks In his book Zen and the Art of Public School Teaching Mr Perricone compellingly invites his reader to participate in an introspective journey that is designed to help the reader better know themselves and the professional path upon which they have embarked This book is for those who are just beginning their careers in teaching for veteran teachers who are still very open to personal and professional growth and to those who are thinking about becoming teachers Zen and the Art of Public School Teaching John Perricone,2005-12-30 Zen and the Art of Public School Teaching John Perricone,2005-01

Faith-Based Education That Constructs HeeKap Lee, 2010-08-09 Constructivism is everywhere It is a hot issue at this time in the field of philosophy education technology and religion However can constructivism be an alternative approach in faith based education While some conclude that Jesus knew learning was an active knowledge creating process and that he always encouraged his disciples to think deeply and go beyond the surface level others would find that constructivism undercuts faith based education because of its claims to relativity For example constructivists claim that meaning is imposed on the world by us rather than existing in the world independently from us Thus they proclaim that truth is relative to particular times places and people Christians hold that truth does exist absolutely So how can there be a way forward for faith based educators who see the good in the constructivist approach In Faith Based Education that Constructs readers will find a unique approach whereby constructivism may appropriately be applied to a faith based education setting Although disagreement can occur between constructivism and faith based education this book concludes that constructivist thought and Christian faith based education are in the end congruent and harmonious in significant ways Those faith based educators who continue to hold cautionary views of radical constructivist assertions against absolute truths need not disregard all other aspects of constructivism The Register of the Spencer Museum of Art Helen Foresman Spencer Museum of Art, 1990
