First-Time International Bond Issuance—New Opportunities and Emerging Risks Ms.Anastasia Guscina,Mr.Guilherme Pedras,Gabriel Presciuttini,2014-07-18

International bond issuance by debut issuers has risen in recent years The uptick was a result of both demand and supply factors The search for yield and demand for portfolio diversification have resulted in demand driven easy financing conditions At the same time rising financing needs for many debut issuers coupled with reduced access to concessional financing relatively undeveloped domestic markets and a favorable interest rate environment have made international bonds an attractive financing alternative for many countries As bonds issued in the international markets are typically denominated in hard currencies have large volumes and a bullet structure exposure to exchange rate and refinancing risk has increased Therefore risk mitigating policy actions are needed to prepare for redemption support debt sustainability and secure adequate debt management capacity

Labour Force Survey ,2014 Independent Power Projects in Sub-Saharan Africa Anton Eberhard,Katharine Gratwick,Elvira Morella,Pedro Antmann,2016-04-18 Inadequate electricity services pose a major impediment to reducing extreme poverty and boosting shared prosperity in Sub Saharan Africa Simply put Africa does not have enough power Despite the abundant low carbon and low cost energy resources available to Sub Saharan Africa the region s entire installed electricity capacity at a little over 80 GW is equivalent to that of the Republic of Korea Looking ahead Sub Saharan Africa will need to ramp up its power generation capacity substantially The investment needed to meet this goal largely exceeds African countries already stretched public finances Increasing private investment is critical to help expand and improve electricity supply Historically most private sector finance has been channeled through privately financed independent power projects IPP supported by nonrecourse or limited recourse loans with long term power purchase agreements with the state utility or another off taker Between 1990 and 2014 IPPs have spread across Sub Saharan Africa and are now present in 17 countries Currently there are 125 IPPs with an overall installed capacity of 10 7 GW and investments of 24 6 billion However private investment could be much greater and less concentrated South Africa alone accounts for 67 IPPs 4 3 GW of capacity and 14 4 billion of investments the remaining projects are concentrated in a handful of countries The objective of this study is to evaluate the experience of IPPs and identify lessons that can help African countries attract more and better private investment At the core of this analysis is a reflection on whether IPPs have in fact benefited Sub Saharan Africa and how they might be improved The analysis is based primarily on in depth case studies carried out in five countries including Kenya Nigeria South Africa Tanzania and Uganda which not only have the most numerous but also among the most extensive experience with IPPs

Handbook of Research on Acquiring 21st Century Literacy Skills Through Game-Based Learning Lane, Carol-Ann,2022-01-07 Emerging technologies are becoming more prevalent in global classrooms Traditional literacy pedagogies are shifting toward game based pedagogy addressing 21st century learners Therefore within this context there remains a need to study strategies to engage learners in meaning making with some element of virtual design Technology supports the universal design learning framework because it can increase the access to meaningful engagement in learning and reduce barriers The Handbook of Research on Acquiring 21st Century Literacy Skills Through Game Based Learning provides theoretical frameworks and empirical research findings in digital technology and multimodal ways of acquiring literacy skills in the 21st century This book gains a better understanding of how technology can support learner frameworks and highlights research on discovering new pedagogical boundaries by focusing on ways that the youth learn from digital sources such as video games Covering topics such as elementary literacy learning indigenous games and student worker training this book is an essential resource for educators in K 12 and higher education school administrators academicians pre service teachers game developers researchers and libraries

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias, David K. Evans, Indhira Santos, 2019-01-31 Despite strong recent economic growth Sub Saharan Africa has levels of economic transformation poverty reduction and skill development far below those of other regions Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity growth inclusion and adaptability can help to accelerate the region s economic transformation in the 21st century Sub Saharan Africa s growing working age population presents a major opportunity to increase shared prosperity Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years and more children are in school today than ever before Yet systems for building skills in this population have fallen short and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects In half of the countries fewer than two in every three children complete primary school even fewer reach and complete higher levels of education Learning outcomes have been persistently poor leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills literacy and numeracy among children young people and adults The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in many countries functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress Multiple agencies at the central and local levels are involved in skills development strategies making skills everyone s problem but no one s responsibility Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuit of national skills development goals The Skills Balancing Act in Sub Saharan Africa Investing in Skills for Productivity Inclusivity and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skill investments Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysis and synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and what market and institutional failures affect skills formation What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including family investments private sector institutions schools and other public programs How those systems can be strengthened How the most vulnerable individuals those who fall outside the standard systems and have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported Countries will face trade offs often stark ones that will have distributional impacts and a bearing on their development path Committed leaders reform coalitions and well coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub Saharan Africa

Smallholder farmer participation in modernization of a food system Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-09-28 This report explores whether farm assets determine the participation of smallholder dairy farmers in sales to Milk Collection Centres MCC and how their duration as MCC suppliers affects their accumulation of farm capital and technology A survival analysis approach used constructed panel data for dairy farmers over a 12 year period Participation in MCC value chains is found to be determined by location training and cooperative membership thus having a mixed effect on the inclusion of smallholder producers Duration as an MCC supplier is correlated with accumulation of capital and changes in technology The implications are that policy makers need to facilitate smallholder farmers in engaging in collective action and accessing modern infrastructure

Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO, 2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not
