2 After being emancipated his mother Matilda had moved to Dayton with other family members including her two sons Robert and William from her first marriage Dunbar's father Joshua had escaped from slavery in Kentucky before the war ended He traveled to Massachusetts and volunteered for the 55th Massachusetts Infantry Regiment one of the first two black units to serve in the war The senior Dunbar also served in the 5th Massachusetts Cavalry Regiment Paul Dunbar was born six months after Joshua and Matilda married on Christmas Eve 1871

Sporting with the Gods Michael Oriard, 1991-02-22 Sporting with the Gods examines the rhetoric of game and play and sport in American culture from the time of the Puritans to the 1980s Focusing on writers and public figures who dominated public discourse Oriard shows how the trope of game and play in fiction and in religious social and economic writings can be used to graph changes in the religious and social climate from the Puritans through the Transcendentalists to the Social Darwinists and from the Beats and hippies to the New Age spiritualists of the present decade He also uses the trope to graph the shifting attitudes toward work and play in the game of business as the United States moved to industrial capitalism and then to a postindustrial society of consumerism and leisure The result is a history of this country from its inception through the lens of a single trope resonating with implications at every strata of American culture from back cover

The Sport of Our Ancestors Richard Greville Verney baron Willoughby de Broke, 1925

Black Folklore and the Politics of Racial Representation Shirley Moody-Turner, 2013-10-02 Before the innovative work of Zora Neale Hurston folklorists from the Hampton Institute collected studied and wrote about African American folklore Like Hurston these folklorists worked within but also beyond the bounds of white mainstream institutions They often called into question the meaning of the very folklore projects in which they were engaged Shirley Moody Turner analyzes this output along with the contributions of a disparate group of African American authors and scholars She explores how black authors and folklorists were active participants rather than passive observers in conversations about the politics of representing black folklore Examining literary texts folklore documents cultural performances legal discourse and political rhetoric Black Folklore and the Politics of Racial Representation demonstrates how folklore studies became a battleground across which issues of racial identity and difference were asserted and debated at the turn of the twentieth century The study is framed by two questions of historical and continuing import What role have representations of black folklore played in constructing racial identity And how have those ideas impacted the way African Americans think about and creatively engage black traditions Moody Turner renders established historical facts in a new light and context taking figures we thought we knew such as Charles Chesnutt Anna Julia Cooper and Paul Laurence Dunbar and recasting their place in African American intellectual and cultural history

Canaan Bound Lawrence Richard Rodgers, 1997 Drawing on a wide range of major literary voices including Richard Wright Ralph Ellison and Toni Morrison as well as lesser known writers such as William Attaway Blood on the Forge and Dorothy West The Living Is Easy Rodgers conducts a kind of literary archaeology of the Great Migration He mines the writers biographical connections to migration and teases apart the ways in which individual novels relate to one another to the historical situation of black America and to African American literature as a whole In reading migration novels in relation to African American literary texts such as slave narratives folk tales and urban fiction Rodgers affirms the southern folk roots of African American culture and argues for a need to stem the erosion of southern memory

The Olympic Movement and the Sport of Peacemaking Ramón Spaaij, Cindy Burleson, 2016-04-22 Sport and peacemaking have evolved It is no longer the case that the Olympic Games and war games exist in isolation from each other Increasingly policymakers peacekeepers athletes development workers presidents of nations and others combine forces in an integrated approach towards peace This approach is located not only within the broader historically evolved Olympic Movement but also in relation to a newly emerged social movement which promotes development and peace through sport This book critically examines the ways in which this development is being played out at global national and local levels particularly in relation to the Olympic Movement and initiatives such as the biennial Olympic Truce Resolution The volume constitutes a unique scholarly attempt to provide an in depth comparative analysis of the sport of peacemaking in the context of the Olympic Movement Through international comparison and empirically grounded case studies the book provides an important new departure in the study of the social impact of the Olympic Movement and related peacemaking efforts It discusses these issues from a range of academic disciplines including history sociology political science economics geography philosophy and international relations This book was previously published as a special issue of Sport in Society

The Nadir and the Zenith Anna Pochmara, 2021-05-01 The Nadir and the Zenith is a study of temperance and melodramatic excess in African American fiction before the Harlem Renaissance Anna Pochmara combines formal analysis with attention to the historical context which in addition to postbellum race relations in the United States includes white and black temperance movements and their discourses Despite its proliferation and popularity at the time African American fiction between Reconstruction and World War I has not attracted nearly as much scholarly attention as the Harlem Renaissance Pochmara provocatively suggests that the historical moment when black people s status in American society reached its lowest point what historian Rayford Logan called the Nadir coincides with the zenith of black novelistic productivity before World War II Pochmara examines authors such as William Wells Brown Charles W Chesnutt Paul Laurence Dunbar Frances Ellen Watkins Harper Pauline Elizabeth Hopkins and Amelia E Johnson Together these six writers published no fewer than seventeen novels in the years of the Nadir 1877 1901 surpassing the creativity of all New Negro prose writers and the number of novels they published during the height of the Harlem Renaissance in the 1920s
