

Improving the quality of education and training in Morocco is a major task, and one of a series of educational commitments with international institutions. The quality of education is critical to help the country's economic transition and development, including the completion of basic education, and reducing teacher training, students' entry into school, teachers' career flow, entry and exit from the system, and upgrading skills in line with the needs of the labour market. It is through the impact of digital learning and teacher training that the quality of education of all Moroccan students, current students, teachers, skills and attitudes, and learning outcomes are enhanced.

International Consultant, Director of Morocco's Higher Education, the past the head of Higher Education and Research Council, Ambassador to the United Arab Emirates, and a member of the International Council for the Arab League, Dr. Mohamed El Ghannouchi is a senior professor at the University of Morocco, Morocco.
